OPEN ADVANCE ON TRIER

Allied Troops Closer to Important German Base, 25 Miles From Border.

BULLETIN

PARIS—(AP)—German troops were reported today to be retreating slowly down the Moselle valley in the face of persistent French pressure.

(By Associated Press)

PARIS—French forces seesawed fiercely at Saarbruecken's defenses today, alternating attacks from three sides was reported, while an offensive northeast of the frontier town of Sierck carried them closer to the important German base of Trier.

Saarbruecken, major goal of the operations, lies in Germany's rich, industrial Saar valley.

The general staff reported a local offensive toward Trier had established strong positions near the junction of the French, German and Luxembourg borders. Trier lies about 25 miles within Germany.

The communique also indicated the French line facing Saarbruecken was moving slowly toward the rich prize "despite strong enemy reactions, notably by his artillery."

The advance in the Sierck region, the communique said, gave the French assured positions after five days of fighting touched off in that sector by a "German offensive movement."

Start Evacuation.

Violence of the combat caused Luxembourg authorities to remove residents from the border region close by although the fighting was said to have been confined strictly to German soil.

The French were reported to have fallen back about 500 yards at one point in the battle when heavy artillery poured shells onto their advancing lines. Later, however, the French regained the same

WAIT SENTENCE

Weiss, Four Others Convicted of Louisiana Fraud.

NEW ORLEANS—(UP)—Seymour Weiss, who was treasurer of the late Huey P. Long's political machine, and four other "wonder boys" of Louisiana politics, awaited sentences today for mail fraud.

A jury in federal court took only two hours last night to convict them of having used the mails to defraud Louisiana of $75,000.

Judge Wayne G. Borah deferred sentencing them until their attorneys have pleaded today for a decree setting aside the verdict as unwarranted, or, failing that, a new trial.

Convicted with Weiss were Dr. James Monroe Smith, president of Louisiana State university; Monte E. Hart, an electrical contractor who has had many state contracts; Louis C. Lesage, who was an executive of a large oil company until he was indicted; and J. Emory Adams, Smith's nephew.

HIT-SKIP DRIVER KILLS BUCYRIAN

Jobless War Veteran Found Fatally Injured in Road 6 Miles From City.

BUCYRUS—Struck by a hit-skip driver as he walked along route 4 north of Bucyrus last night, Gordon Starner, 49, unemployed Bucyrus World war veteran, was fatally injured and died a short time later in City hospital.

Starner, well known in Bucyrus, received a possible skull fracture and numerous lacerations on his body, hospital attendants said. He was taken to the hospital by a passing motorist who found him beside the road about 6 miles north of Bucyrus shortly after 9:30 p. m.

Robert Beall of Bucyrus told Sheriff Arthur French that he saw Starner walking north from Bucyrus in the highway last night.

Authorities' only clue was provided by Charles Quaintance, a filling station attendant, who said a southbond truck stopped at his station near the city limits last night and the driver asked for a pail of water.

The driver said the front of the truck "looked as if it had gone through a slaughter yard," Quaintance related. The attendant said he did not notice the truck's license plates.

Starner, a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, lived with his father, William Starner. Also surviving is a sister, Mrs. Elsie Smith of Akron.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Monday at the Wise Funeral home in Bucyrus. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery.

Landis Sets Opening Game For American League Park.

CHICAGO—(UP)—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis today set Oct. 4 in the park of the American League pennant winner for the opening of the 1939 world series.

Landis said the first two games would be played in the American League park on Wednesday and Thursday, the teams would travel on Friday, and resume play in the park of the National League winner on Saturday.

Play will continue in the National League park through Sunday and Monday, he said, and if the world championship is not won by that time the teams will travel again on Tuesday, resuming in the American League park Wednesday and Thursday if the full seven games are necessary.

FAMED FLIER TO BROADCAST TALK TONIGHT

Joins in Controversy After Borah Speaks Against Changes in Law.

KNOX FAVORING REPEAL

Former G. O. P. Candidate for Vice President Declares for Lifting Embargo.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The debate of whether the present neutrality law is neutral or unneutral was in full swing today and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was expected to add to it tonight in a radio talk to the nation.

Col. Lindbergh will speak from 9:45 to 10 p. m. EST, on "America and Foreign Wars" over the three major networks—Columbia, Mutual and the National Broadcasting company red hookup. Broadcasting officials said the address was arranged for Lindbergh by "a friend," but declined to disclose his name.

It will be the first time the radio audience has heard the famous flier's voice since Aug. 28, 1931, when he spoke before an assembly of Japanese dignitaries in Tokyo.

Both the pro and the con of the neutrality debate were expressed last night. Sen. William E. Borah, veteran isolationist, thought that any change in the present neutrality law, whose chief feature is a mandatory embargo on the shipment of arms and ammunitions to all belligerents, would be unneutral. Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher and Republican vice presidential candidate of 1936, thought the law as it now stands is unneutral and that the embargo should be repealed.

Borah addressed the nation by radio. Knox issued a public statement.

Claim Law Unneutral.

Opponents of the present neutrality law maintain it is unneutral because, in prohibiting shipment of war materials to all belligerents, it places the United States indirectly on the side of Germany in its struggle against Great Britain and France because

U-BOATS SINK

British Warships Destroying 'a Number' of Subs.

LONDON—(AP)—The British ministry of information announced this afternoon that "a number" of German submarines have been destroyed by patrols of British destroyers and airplanes.

The U-boat survivors were rescued and captured wherever possible, the ministry said.

The following communique was issued:

"His majesty's destroyers, patrol vessels and aircraft have been carrying out constant patrols over wide areas in search of enemy U-boats. Many attacks have been made and a number of U-boats have been destroyed. Survivors have been rescued and captured when possible."

Gamelin, Allies' Supreme Leader, Shy, Studious and Map-Crazy

He Comes of Long Line of Generals, Helped Joffre In 1914.

(By AP Feature Service)

When the light strikes his face right, Maurice Gamelin looks like the Cowardly Lion in "The Wizard of Oz." Under the light of the lamps at home he looks like a mild, rather stern little business man.

Under no kind of light does the tidy Frenchman look like the master mind of the allied armies in the new World war.

So much for appearances. Gamelin has his record to stand on.

From the age of 20 months, when his mother painted a picture of him in his lace-trimmed dress, beating a toy drum, Gamelin has been a soldier. There have been five French generals in his family.

When he was a student in a Catholic academy, the young Gamelin immersed himself in the career of the great Napoleon.

At St. Cyr, the West Point of France, he was graduated first in a class of more than 400. That was in 1893, when he was only 21. Then he went to Algeria for three years of wild campaigning.

There followed the work that has made contemporaries call him "map crazy." Gamelin did surveying and drew maps. He pored over maps; he memorized them. He learned the terrain of France by memory—and the terrain of parts of the world he never had visited.

When Joffre became commander-in-chief in 1911, Gamelin became his military secretary.

It was the quiet little map-studying major who formulated the order that, in 1914, started the Marne counter-offensive, a maneuver that has been credited with turning the tide of victory against the Germans.

When the war had ended, Gamelin had been elevated to the rank of divisional general.

March Of Time Photo

COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF: Several months ago Britain and France agreed the Allies would need a single commanding officer if war should come and Gamelin was the man to get the job. He did.

In 1925 he subdued the bloody Druse revolt in Syria, then became commander of France's Army of the Levant.

Next it was chief of the general staff (in 1931).

And when Premier Daladier came into power, Gamelin achieved an honor held by no soldier since his own hero, Napoleon—he was made commander of the army, the navy and of the air force.

That is the man who now heads the allied armies fighting Germany; if not "the greatest soldier in the world today," certainly one of the greatest.

War Flashes---

Reports 20,000 Dead In Air Raids

PARIS—(UP)—The Polish Transcontinental Press reported today that the Lemberg (Lwow) radio had announced that 20,000 civilians had been killed in German air raids.

RIO DE JANEIRO—(INS)—The German freighter Konigsberg, flying the British flag and painted in wartime camouflage, entered the port of Belem today in an attempt to dodge the British blockade. Earlier reports said that the Konigsberg flew the American flag. Lack of fuel oil forced the vessel to port, it was said.

Hopes To Limit Special Session

WASHINGTON—(UP)—President Roosevelt indicated today that the administration's special congressional session program will be limited to revision of the neutrality law.

BERLIN—(INS)—President Ignace Moscicki and other members of the Polish government today appealed to Rumania for safe refuge, the official German news agency DNB declared. Members of the government were reported to be in the town of Zaleszczyki, only five miles from the Rumanian border.

HURRAY! COOLER SUNDAY, MAYBE

But There's Little Chance of Relief From Stifling Heat Tomorrow, Says Forecast.

Weatherman held hope today of relief by Sunday afternoon from the record September heat wave which set a season's mark of 96 degrees in Mansfield yesterday and shoved the mercury past 100 in dozens of midwestern cities.

Nine deaths, including five in Indiana, were attributed to the heat. Kentucky, Iowa, Illinois and Minnesota had one death each.

With the mercury threatening to equal or better yesterday's record in Mansfield today, city schools were dismissed at 2:30 p. m., an hour earlier than usual. The temperature was 94 at noon today, one degree below the noon reading Thursday.

Censorship Controls Flow of War News

(By Associated Press)

Censorship of news is effective in nearly all European countries. It is especially thorough in Great Britain, France and Germany.

So far the chief apparent hindrance imposed by censorship has been disruption of normal communications, but it is obvious that censors seek to prevent the sending of unfavorable news from their respective countries.

Some news dispatches are transmitted in ten or fifteen minutes; others are delayed for hours and some doubtless are suppressed by the censorship.

Sees Nazis' Defeat And Rise Of Independent States Again

Germany as a nation will be destroyed in the current war in Europe and will emerge as a group of independent states as it was before Bismarck, Louis Bromfield, Mansfield author and student of international affairs, believes.

He presented these views in a talk at a press dinner given for him in Columbus last night by theater men, after which a preview of "The Rains Came," made from his novel, was given at the state office building. The picture made its official bow in the capital city today at the RKO Palace theater.

Both France and Great Britain have set out to destroy Germany as a united nation, he said because their people "are weary of appeasement and crisis after crisis."

"In both countries," he stated, "this is a popular war. It reflects a perfect functioning of democracy. England and France are at war because their people want to be Galento tipped the scales in the Pennsylvania state athletic commission office at 224½ pounds while Nova weighed in at 207.

The fight will be broadcast at 9 p. m. (Mansfield time) by WHK, Cleveland, and the blue chain of NBC.

Russia, Nazis Ready to Split Poland, Belief

Observers Interpret Mobilization Of Soviet Armies Indicative of Early Red Invasion of Eastern Border; Moscow Calls It 'Preparedness.'

BULLETIN

MOSCOW—(AP)—Soviet Russia and Japan were reported to have reached an "armistice" today in their undeclared war on the Manchoukuo-Mongolian border. Some observers expected the move to lead immediately to the signing of a non-aggression pact between them.

(Compiled from latest dispatches of Associated Press, United Press and International News Service).

Beleaguered Poland, fighting a losing battle with the fast-moving legions of Adolf Hitler, now faces the prospect of being set on from the east by the soldiers of Red Russia, and eventually divided between the two, dispatches from Europe indicated today.

The Berlin correspondent of the newspaper, Politiken in Copenhagen, Denmark, reported today that Russia had definitely decided to attack the Polish army east of the Vistula river as soon as mobilization is complete.

Russo-German negotiations in Berlin for the partition of Poland—probably with the creation of a buffer state under joint control between Russia and Germany—are progressing satisfactorily, the correspondent reported.

Meanwhile, dispatches from Moscow said recruits flocked to the colors of the Soviet army today as Russia called up reserves from numerous classes and mounted a formidable guard of troops on her western frontier—her boundary with Poland.

Only "Precautionary."

The Moscow press continued to insist that the Russian mobilization was only "precautionary" but the United States embassy today advised all Americans who have no compelling reason for remaining to leave Russia immediately.

Moscow advices indicated that the navy as well as the army

EAST: Warsaw In Shambles But Defiant Poles Refuse To Crack

BULLETIN

PARIS—(U.P.)—Transcontinental Radio (a Polish agency) reported heavy fighting today on the outskirts of Warsaw. German tanks and motorized troops were reported to have reached the suburbs but Polish sources here said they had been driven back.

(By International News Service)

BRUSSELS—Ravaged by shot and shell, hard-pressed for food and carrying on life in the midst of the shambles of war, the city of Warsaw held out today with a courage almost unparalleled in history.

The correspondent of the Brussels newspaper Independence Belge, who succeeded in remaining in Warsaw long after most foreigners had been compelled to leave, flashed a graphic picture of the situation there in a dispatch reaching Brussels this afternoon.

There is not a single street left in the city which does not bear the traces of war, he said.

Throughout the length and breadth of the once beautiful capital, long the pride of central Europe, not a single thoroughfare stands untouched.

The streets are choked with debris—the rubble and mortar of shattered buildings. Even structures six stories in heighth have collapsed under the constant rain of mammoth shells and exploding aerial bombs.

The population somehow or other has become inured to war's horrors, the correspondent said.

CLAIMS: Here's What Both Sides Say Of War's Progress

(By United Press)

Today's rival claims in the European war:

ALLIES—French claim troops filtered into advance works before German westwall east of Saarbruecken despite 36 hours of intense artillery fire by Nazis; reports indicate attack in force may be in progress against Germans in Sierck sector as French presumably seek weak spot in wall; advancing east of Saar river, French take first German prisoners.

British troops reported entering France by tens of thousands, their equipment and training hailed as superior to all others; French and British anti-submarine squadrons start big scale hunt for freighters or tankers believed to be acting as supply ships for German U-boats; French say Germans started war with 30 submarines at sea and now have less than 25.

Polish radio claims Poles still hold Warsaw and Lwow, having inflicted heavy losses on Germans attacking both cities; renew charges that German planes bomb non-combatants.

GERMANY—High command says Germans from north entered fortified zone of Brest-Litovsk, gateway to east-central Poland, 120 miles east of Warsaw and 140 miles from Soviet border, and blew up parts of the fortifications; Germans reported approaching Praga, eastern suburb of Warsaw, from north, east and south; Nazi forces said to have penetrated southeast of Lwow, cutting Poles off from Rumanian border; army command minimizes west front action, asserting that German artillery fire repulsed attackers south of Pirmasens.

CALLS COUNCIL TO ACT TUESDAY ON RELIEF BONDS

Mayor Sets Special Session to Authorize $25,000 Issue as State Okays Plan.

City council will meet in special session Tuesday night on the call of Mayor Claude M. Hunter to take formal action on legislation authorizing the issuance of $25,000 in delinquent tax bonds for financing the city's relief burden for the balance of the year.

Mayor Hunter issued the call for the meeting today after approval had been received from the state tax commission authorizing the city to issue the bonds in anticipation of the collection of delinquent taxes.

Approval of the bond issue will provide funds for matching state money as provided under the state relief law Under the matching plan the state would give the city another $25,000.

Appropriation OK'D.

Council at its meeting last week approved an appropriation of $10,000 from the general fund for relief. This with the $50,000 anticipated through the issuance of bonds and the matching process would provide the city with $60,000.

City Auditor Paul Kelley told council that the sum would allow for the payment of a current relief indebtedness of approximately $20,000 and to provide for the payment of relief bills for the balance of 1939 providing no sharp increase was shown in the relief load.

Remnants of Another Generation

Richland county's only remaining covered bridge, shown here, is a 101-foot structure over the Black Fork creek in Bloominggrove township north of Mansfield. More than 60 years old, the bridge is still safe for ordinary traffic. A number of the old bridges dotted country roads a generation ago, but they disappeared with the coming of the automobile and truck.

* * * *

PAST 60, LAST COVERED BRIDGE IN COUNTY STILL HALE, HEARTY

A remnant of a past generation, Richland county's last covered bridge spans the Black Fork creek in Bloominggrove township in the northern part of the county

Several of the covered structures once dotted the county roads, but the coming of the automobile and truck spelled the end of the old bridges, useful only in a horse and buggy era.

There are no immediate plans to replace the old bridge which is still one of the safer structures on county roads although it is believed to be more than 60 years old, County Engineer Howard C. Sword said.

The bridge, which is 101½ feet long, is on the Rome South road Its oak timbers are still solid and it will safely handle loads up to six tons, Sword says.

The bridge, like most of the old spans, however is only 14 feet wide, too narrow for modern traffic

The Bloominggrove township structure has been the county's only surviving covered bridge for about seven years. Another of the covered spans on the Butler-Bellville road was demolished in 1932 when a truck loaded with pickles crashed through it.

The bridges are still common in many Ohio communities and in the New England states.

For years there has been a controversy over the purpose of a covered bridge, but no one, so far as it is known, ever determined the real origin of it.

Some advanced the theory that the roof was to shelter the floor and prolong the life of the bridge Others said the sides and roof prevented farm animals from looking down to the water below as they were being driven over the bridge, making them less afraid and easier to drive.

Still another theory holds that the bridges merely provided an occasional shelter for the traveler on horseback or in open top buggy, if he was caught in the rain

As the automobile came into use, boards were removed from the sides of the bridges to make it possible to see whether there were cars in them and to let in light. The Bloominggrove township bridge has a number of boards off the sides to afford better vision for motorists.

THIS AND THAT: According to Vivian Leigh (Scarlett O'Hara) it will be October or November before she and Laurence Olivier are free to wed. The star and her husband have come to an agreement over their child and nothing's in the way of her divorce . . . Joan Fontaine held out for a clause in her new contract with Selznick under which she may leave Hollywood anytime her new bridegroom, Brian Aherne, goes on a jaunt. The only exception is that if he is called for military duty . . . The only reason Tyrone Power didn't return to Europe with Annabelle was that his contract forebade it. He is to start at once on "Daytime Wife" . . .

"Wizard of Oz"

Away back in 1903 the greatest muscial show on Broadway was "The Wizard of Oz" with Montgomery and Stone. It was so sucessful that it ran for 13 years, seven years with the original stars, and played in every city in the United States. Now it comes to the screen as a technicolor fantasy, with Judy Garland as the little Kansas farm girl who wandered into the Land of Oz, with her dog Toto and the strange people she met on the way to the Emerald City. Frank Morgan plays the Wizard, dancy Ray Bolger is the Scarecrow, Bert Lahr the Cowardly Lion; Jack Haley the Tin Woodman; Billie Burke the Beautiful Witch, and Margaret Hamilton the Wicked Witch. The Singer Midgets play the Munchkins. This fantasy in color opens at the Ohio tomorrow noon.

"Blackmail"

A story that is decidedly different, and a cast of more than ordinary merit is combined in "Blackmail," which opens at the Madison tomorrow. It is a dramatic story of the oil well country, a man with a past and who makes his living at the dangerous business of putting out burning wells. The climax is found when he must choose between revenge on the man who sent him to prison or saving the life of his wife. Edward G. Robinson plays the man who finds a way to punish his enemy; Ruth Hussey is seen as his wife and little Bob Watson, who scored as the child in "On Borrowed Time," plays their son.

Mesquiteers at Ritz

John Wayne, who "graduated" recently from Western action films to star in Class A features such as "Stagecoach" and whose current feature, "Allegheny Frontier" is soon to be released, formerly worked in the Three Mesquiteers series. One of these, "Three Texas Steers," is an attraction at the Ritz today and tomorrow. The theme is a girl's problems who inherits a down-at-the-heels circus job. On the same bill is "Ex-Champ," with Victor McLaglen, Tom Brown and Nan Grey.

Air Espionage

Ralph Richardson, who played the second male lead in "The Citadel," has an important role in "Clouds Over Europe" which stars Laurence Olivier. He plays a mild-mannered, umbrella-losing sleuth from Scotland Yard who undertakes to solve the mysterious disapperance of airplanes which are being tested for the government. Olivier is a pilot and Valerie Hobson a newspaper reporter. The picture is at the Park, along with "Irish Luck," featuring Frankie Darro.

Singing Cowgirl

Dorothy Page invades the ranks of "singing cowboys" to prove that a girl can sing and ride, shoot and fight—with her wits—as well as any cowhand that ever thundered across a cinema screen. As for fist fighting, she leaves that to her boy friends. She plays a modern ranch owner who is bedeviled by cattle rustlers. This new adventure on Western action pictures is at the Majestic, where "Angles With Dirty Faces," a James Cagney-Pat O'Brien picture is also being shown.

CRESTLINE—Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Ball of South Thoman street are the parents of a son born Wednesday at their home.

Has Big Role In 'Wizard'

Judy Garland, youthful singing star of the screen, has the most important role of her career as Dorothy in "The Wizard of Oz," which will be the Ohio theater attraction for four days, starting tomorrow.

Judy, who recently made a record-breaking personal appearance engagement in New York City, plays the little Kansas farm girl in this screen adaptation of the old Stone and Montgomery musical comedy hit.

VENERABLE BIRD DIES AT AGE 108

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(U.P.)—Although parrots and cats are natural deadly enemies, the case of Polly and Blackie was an exception.

Both pets of Perry Bauer, they became friends at first sight four years ago and were inseparable companions.

When Blackie, a Persian, took ill and died, Polly grieved for two days, refused to eat and finally passed away of a broken heart.

Perry said the parrot was at least 108 years old and was brought to this country in 1830 after being found aboard a pirate craft in the China sea.

DOWN CHIMNEY

LOS ALTOS, Cal. — (U.P.) — It wasn't Santa Claus that popped out of the fireplace before which Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Friend were chatting. It was merely a wild cat that had come down the chimney. That cat showed fight, but after running around the room a few times it leaped through a window. Police were able to track it for several miles but were unable to find it.

Break in British Pound Sterling to Lowest Level in 6 Years Restraining Factor.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market today extended the breathing spell which started yesterday, and leading issues, including the "War Babies," shuffled over an irregular range.

Wall street generally maintained its bullishness over the outlook for expanding business, but the boom fervor appeared to have faded.

Another sharp break in the British pound sterling to the lowest level in six years in terms of the dollar was a restraining market factor.

Bonds and commodities were moderately mixed. Securities at Amsterdam slipped after early firmness.

Among resistant shares were Woolworth, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Chesapeake & Ohio, Allied Chemical, Boeing, Westinghouse, American Break Shoe, Johns-Manville, Houdaille-Hershey, Pullman, Lone Star Cement and American Smelting.

Noted was the survey of Dun & Bradstreet estimating retail spending for the country in the current week topped the corresponding period last year by 8 to 12 per cent which, it was pointed out, was in line with seasonal expectations.

Some surprise was expressed over the Federal Reserve figures disclosing a drop in brokers' loans for the week ended Wednesday of $69,000,000. The decrease was in the face of soaring stocks and exceptional activity.

HURRAY! COOLER SUNDAY, MAYBE

Ohio cities were dismissed yesterday afternoon because of the intense heat.

The forecast for Saturday was the same as for today—fair and continued warm. But showers are expected to end the blistering heat by Sunday afternoon or night.

Van Wert, with 105 degrees, was the warmest spot on the entire Ohio weather map yesterday. Wilmington, in southwestern Ohio, was next with an official 104. Marysville, Springfield and Lancaster reported 102.

At Cleveland, a reading of 94 degrees set a record for the date, while Columbus also set a new mark with 98. It was 100 in Cincinnati.

Ohio farmers said the heat was causing corn to dry out too fast and some of them predicted the yield would be cut 25 per cent. Pastures were parched in many sections.

Farmers near Anderson, Ind., said the heat was causing popcorn to pop in metal cribs.

Nazis Making Munitions In Conquered Polish Plants

FACTORIES IN POLAND START BOMB OUTPUT

Goering Orders Nazi Warships to Begin 'Counter-Blockade' to Get British Warstuffs.

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—While the German high command reported new successes on the eastern front today, the government began to draw on already conquered regions of Poland for supplies with which to wage war against France and Britain in the west.

Field Marshal Hermann Goering, director of the reich's four-year plan, returned from a tour of the Silesian industrial area to report that factories which a week ago were manufacturing Polish munitions now were turning out bombs for German war planes.

Goering's report closely followed an announcement the high command had ordered German submarines and warships to begin an immediate "counter blockade" in answer to Britain's determination to intercept foodstuffs intended for the reich.

French Retreat, Claim.

A communique issued this morning by the high command describing operations on the western front said French forces which launched an attack Sept. 12 near Schweig (a border point south of Pirmasens) had been driven back across the frontier under a heavy artillery barrage.

Successes were reported at widely separated points on the Polish front.

The navy was reported to have sunk an unstated number of Polish war vessels lying in the harbor of Heisternest.

In the south, troops pressing into the Ukraine were said to have crossed the Lwow-Lublin road and to be "progresing toward the Bug river."

In the Warsaw sector, German forces were reported to have crossed the Narew river east of Modlin and seized Jablona, about 10 miles northwest of the capital. The communique said these troops were approaching the Warsaw suburb of Praga, which Polish broadcasts yesterday described as in ruins.

Approximately 100 miles east of Warsaw, forces advancing against the fortress of Brest-Litovsk (Brzesc and Bugiem) "have invaded the north and northeastern zone of fortification," the communique declared.

Warsaw was reported still in Polish hands, but the communique said "five important railway lines were attacked and interrupted" east of the city.

German military circles declined to predict when the fall of the capital might be expected, but they indicated belief it might be a matter of only a few days or even hours.

A general staff spokesman asserted "the army's schedule for occupation of Poland is being preserved."

Leaps From Ninth Floor Window As Detective Pleads

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—While a detective pleaded with him against suicide, Willis E. Lewis, 55-year-old accountant and tax consultant, jumped to his death today from the ninth floor of the Hollenden hotel.

His body landed on a roof over the mezzanine floor on the hotel's inner court.

Detective Robert Hinds reported he was in the hotel lobby talking to Sam Garey, assistant manager, when a guest whose name was not learned telephoned the clerk's desk and reported a man was "hanging from a window ledge."

By looking from an eighth floor window, Detective Hinds and Mr. Garey located the room and entered. Garey ran to summon the fire department and a life net while Detective Hinds talked to Lewis.

"I stood in the doorway and asked him to come back in and talk things over," the officer said. "He finally said: 'Okay. I'll come in,' and started to pull his legs inside. Suddenly he changed his mind and jumped."

DENIES CHARGE

Ex-Guard Says He Was Forced to Resign at O. S. R.

Glenn Hedges, 44, who resigned as guard at the Ohio State reformatory Wednesday, charged today that he was forced to resign by Supt. Arthur L. Glattke.

Hedges also denied that he was absent at the time four trusties escaped from his work gang while making repairs on the administration building outside the walls.

"I was forced to resign or be fired," Hedges said, "and I can prove that I was on the job when the prisoners escaped.

Glattke yesterday declined to comment other than to say he had accepted Hedges' resignation. The four inmates were still at large today.

18,000 WITNESS 'THE RAINS CAME'

Epic of India Sets New Attendance Record at Ohio Theater.

The Mansfield engagement of "The Rains Came" ended "big" last night at the Ohio theater when the attendance was twice that of a normal final night, Manager William Dworski said. The picture set a new record for attendance at that theater.

More than 18,000 people saw the picture during its week in Mansfield, and had it not been for a benefit show at the Ohio today, the management would have retained it through the eighth day.

In comparison with other pictures that have been held a week, the epic of India based on the Bromfield book topped them all, including "Saratoga" which broke all house records two years ago. Approximately 15,000 was the figure for that picture.

200 AT DINNER

G. O. P. Candidates, Workers at First Fall Gathering.

More than 200 county Republican organization workers and candidates attended a dinner last night at the First Methodist church which served as an introduction for the fall campaign in Mansfield.

Candidates for municipal offices were introduced by Atty. Stuart Cramer, secretary of the county G. O. P. executive committee.

Party leaders said the campaign probably will get under way about Oct. 1. No date has been set for the first rally.

Pleads Guilty to One Charge After 2 Are Dismissed

Pleading guilty in municipal court today to a charge of driving in the opposite direction on a one-way street after two other charges against him had been dismissed, Benjamin J. Small, 111 West Second street, was fined $10 and costs.

The lesser charge was filed after City Solicitor Marion D. Ward asked for dismissal of a careless and reckless driving charge and failure to have an operator's license.

Ward said Small had produced his driver's license and that driving in the opposite direction on South Diamond street at Central park as charged by police did not constitute in his opinion careless and reckless driving since he had not endangered any other motorist.

In another case, Edgar Beveridge, 23, R. D. 1, Lucas, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol was fined $100 and costs and his operator's license revoked for one year.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch suspended $35 of the fine on condition that he pay damages to an automobile owned by Kenneth Smith. The charges were filed by Smith.

Howard E. Drushel, 20, R. D. 2, Ashland, pleaded guilty to driving 40 miles an hour in a 20-mile-an-hour zone on Park avenue west yesterday and was fined $10 and costs.

DEATH CLAIMS GALION GRAVE VAULT INVENTOR

Funeral for Thomas F. Kelley, Founder of Industry in Crawford, Set for Monday.

GALION — Death today had claimed another of Galion's prominent citizens, Thomas F. Kelley, who had the original patent on the first open-end steel burial vault and was responsible for the founding of the steel grave vault industry in Crawford county.

While Mr. Kelley had been in ill health for over a year and recently underwent observation at the local hospital, his death Thursday was sudden and was caused by a heart attack at his home, 230 South Market street.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 9 a. m. at St. Patrick's Catholic church with Rev. Father W. J. Killoran officiating. Burial will be made in Mt. Calvary cemetery here.

In 1903 Mr. Kelley made the first metal grave vault in his barn and then in 1905 he became one of the organizers of the Galion Metallic Vault company, first of Galion's six factories which probably has the largest output of any city in the business.

After the first five years, he resigned his superintendency at this plant and went to Bucyrus where in 1910 he started the Kelley Manufacturing company which specializes in metal vaults and in custom metal work. Since July 6, 1938, he has been inactive because of his health, and his business has been managed by his daughter, Veronica C. Kelley.

Born in a small English town of Irish descent, Mr. Kelley came to this country and was first employed as a metal worker. His marriage in September, 1894, was to Nellie Baggs of Galion.

Surviving are his widow, Nellie Baggs Kelley, and his daughter, Veronica C. Kelley. He was the last of a family of nine children.

Mr. Kelley was a charter member of St. Francis Council, 1234, Knights of Columbus; charter member of Galion Council, 476, United Commercial Travelers; a member of Branch 92 Catholic Knights of Ohio; and a member of the North Carolina Funeral Supply Salesman club.

MRS. FINK TO TESTIFY TODAY

Lawyer Asks Saturday Court Session for Accused Baby Slayer's Testimony.

(By United Press)

FREMONT—Defense Attorney Ben H. Dewey requested Judge A. V. Baumann today to hold a Saturday special session in the first degree murder trial of Velma Baker Fink so that she might tell without interruption her story of the death of her 10-week-old son, Haldon.

Dewey explained that he wished to avoid "piecemeal" testimony from Mrs. Fink who, he said, could not be called to the witness stand until late today. The common pleas judge did not rule on Dewey's request immediately.

The brunet 22-year-old divorcee sobbed convulsively when her counsel introduced in evidence baby Haldon's carriage, basinet and layette. Mrs. Oren Baker, 50, the defendant's mother, testified that Mrs. Fink and she had bought or made everything for the baby.

Grey-haired Mrs. Baker yesterday told the jury that Mrs. Fink had "worried herself sick" over a broken home prior to the death of the baby, tossed into a creek near their home in nearby Clyde June 13.

Mrs. Baker testified in a crowded courtroom that her daughter lived a life of repeated disappointments, shattered dreams and under severe physical and emotional strain.

Mrs. Fink wept throughout the testimony.

The state is asking the electric chair for the defendant.

CITY PAYS OFF $16,296 IN OLD RELIEF DEBTS

300 Checks Sent Merchants, Clean Up Bills Until First of June.

The city today paid off $16,296 of its relief bills it owes Mansfield merchants for food, clothing and fuel purchased for indigent families during the past six months.

City Auditor Paul L. Kelley said more than 300 checks ranging in amounts from 44 cents to $800 which were placed in the mails today, represent payments of relief bills to June 1.

Payments were made from a $10,000 appropriation from the general fund authorized by council at its Sept. 5 meeting and state funds received by the city in July and August.

The past indebtedness for the last three months amounting to approximately $11,000 is expected to be paid from a $25,000 delinquent tax bond issue which council is expected to approve at a special meeting next Tuesday.

The proposed bond issue together with monthly state allocation of funds is expected to finance the relief burden for the balance of the year providing no sharp increase is shown in the load, Kelley said.

Meanwhile he reported that the city had received its first allocation of state funds under the new relief set up amounting to $2,053. This amount applied to a balance in the relief fund gives the city $3,188 for minor expenditures in relief until the bond issue is floated.

Truman Thomas, 37, Bellville, also accused of failure to provide for his family, was held in jail awaiting a hearing Saturday morning.

George Cook, 33, Columbus, was returned to Mansfield last night to face a charge of assault and battery filed by E. E. Gieseman of near Shiloh. Cook allegedly struck Gieseman's wife, Mrs. Daisy Gieseman. Cook, who is in the county jail, was returned to Mansfield by Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman.

FRENCH LAUNCH 3-FRONT DRIVE ON NAZI FORCES

ground and pushed on for an undisclosed distance.

Military observers expressed belief that the operations would continue to be localized.

The German defenders of Saarbruecken were reported giving ground under steady French encirclement of the city which Germany lost in the World war and regained by plebiscite only four years ago.

Although Saarbruecken is seven miles in front of the main fortifications of the Siegfried line, its capture would give the French attackers their first big "prestige" victory.

French military dispatches said the French army commanded heights to the west and south of Saarbruecken and that other units had slogged through mud between there and Hornback on the east.

French Take Villages.

(Reports received in Brussels from Luxembourg said French forces had occupied the villages of Apach and Miamuhlen, from which two roads lead to Perl, 10 miles from the Saar river.)

The French disclosed officially they had taken German prisoners as they pressed their advance and declared their own casualties had been "slight."

Because of weather conditions preventing accurate aerial surveys, the German artillery was reported hard pressed in trying to locate French positions to the west and east of Saarbruecken.

Some French observers expressed belief that any German withdrawal was merely for tactical purposes. They said there were many indications that the Germans were preparing a heavy counteroffensive with reinforcements and artillery moved up to the northern side of Saarbruecken.

A heavy rain fell in the battle zone and dirt roads were thick mires in many places.

Germans Attack In Mundat Forest Area.

BASEL, Switzerland—(AP)—Action broke out on a new sector of the western front today, according to reports reaching here, when a fierce German attack in the Mundat forest north of Wissembourg flung back French patrols slowly penetrating the area.

(Wissembourg is just within the French border, 12 miles east of Lauterbourg, where the French Maginot line elbows sharply from it west-east direction to follow the Rhine south. It is 45 miles east of Saarbruecken, goal of the chief French drive.)

The German action apparently was an effort to prevent a repetition of the infiltrating process by which the French gained their foothold in the Saar area. It is from these positions that they now are threatening the entire city of Saarbruecken.

The nature of the Mundat forest lands on the eastern slopes of the Vosges foothills enabled the troops of both sides, reports indicated, to engage in comparatively open fighting, with guns from the opposing lines of forts firing over them.

Should the French action in this sector develop into a full-fledged drive despite the present setback, it was believed the objective would be Bergzabern. One of the big forts in the German Siegfried line crowns a high hill in the town, which was founded by the Romans.

The region around Wissembourg was the scene of one of the decisive battles of the Franco-Prussian war in 1870. The French lost the battle and were forced back toward Metz.

Both the French and German troops moving to the attack passed the graves of their forefathers who were killed fighting each other 70 years ago.

the British navy would prevent Germany getting to our markets if there was no embargo.

Proponents maintain that repeal of the embargo would be unneutral because Germany would be unable to get to our markets, whereas Britain and France would be able to, and thus repeal would place the United States indirectly on the side of Britain and France.

The debate will reach its height on the floor of the senate next week when congress convenes in special session to consider proposals for repealing the embargo. President Roosevelt is for repeal. He would permit all belligerents access to our markets provided they paid cash for what they bought and carried it away in their own ships.

Last night's discussion·

BORAH—"The proposal for repeal (of the arms embargo) is based upon the program of taking sides in the furnishing of arms. . . . If, in a few months, we can tear up the law which a nation almost universally approved, how long do you think it will take to put across the proposition of sending our young men into the trenches once we have intervened?

Charges Discrimination.

". . To those who are advocating repeal, I submit this question. Is it not your main purpose in securing repeal to enable us to furnish arms, munitions, and implements of war to one group of nations and to deny them to another group of nations, which groups are now in mortal combat?

"Is not this laying the foundation for intervention—in fact, is it not intervention—in the present European war? Is it not your purpose to take sides through the authority which will be available when the embargo law is repealed?

"And if the purpose of repeal is to do these things, and we do them, is not neutrality broken down, destroyed, and are we not thenceforth by every rule of international law, by every dictate of common sense and common honesty, parties to a European conflict?"

KNOX—"We must keep out of this war. But if I understood Sen Borah, he argued that if we revise or repeal the present neutrality law we are definitely committing the nation to ultimate participation in the fighting.

"I do not agree. I think our present law is unneutral. It has proved so in all the wars that have come since it was enacted. It would make us in the present war in Europe an ally of Hitler."

It was no doing of the United States, he said, that "before the war England and France built up sea power while Germany strengthened her army and air force."

at war. "They are weary of appeasement and crisis after crisis. They recognize that Germany as a menace must be removed."

On the other hand, he said, Germany is at war because she was out-maneuvered by Stalin. Referring to the Russo-German pact, he said.

"Germany is the only enemy that Russia has in Europe. I am convinced that Russia signed the non-aggression pact with Germany for no other reason than to lead her into war with England and France so that in the end they would destroy her. Such maneuvering is typical of Stalin, typical of his Georgian psychology."

In referring to the dictator of Russia, Bromfield said that he was from the province of Georgia, which was part Mongol in its background and very little removed from a barbaric state, and that Stalin's psychology, both in dealing with his own people and those of other nations, is typical of the barbarism

The author asserted that the war is not popular in Germany and that the French are saving "lives and money by not pushing the fight any harder than they have to as they are waiting for the internal collapse of Germany which is sure to come."

Bromfield returned to Mansfield from Columbus this morning and was scheduled to speak before members of the Mansfield Garden club on the subject of English and French gardens, at Westbrook Country club.

REPORT SOVIET READY TO FIGHT POLES ON EAST

Russia, Germany Preparing to Split Poland, Observers Say of Mobilization.

was affected by the mobilization order, further indicating that the U. S. S. R. may be planning some early intervention in the conflict.

Official estimates placed the number of men called up at 1,000,000.

"Military preparations must be completed, as the world has been caught by a war fever," the Communist newspaper Pravda said.

Moscow newspapers, however, continued to characterize the steps as preparedness measures.

"Preparedness Essential."

"It is essential," the press said, "that the Soviet union be placed in a state of absolute military preparedness now that war has broken out on its frontiers."

"The Union must be in a position to await the future with calm and confidence," one editorial stated.

The Russian mobilization, it was said, has been carried out with "particular thoroughness and speed."

Soviet press attacks against Poland for frontier violations and alleged mistreatment of minorities in the Ukraine and White Russian republics aroused keen interest in diplomatic quarters.

There were no signs, however, of unusual diplomatic activities. Well-informed Soviet sources said that foreign representations against the Soviet attitude were unlikely as Britain, France and Poland "must be aware that any protests are certain to be fruitless under the present circumstances."

Hints that Germany and the Soviets had reached an agreement on Poland came from Nazis in the German capital.

Some Nazis predicted definite Soviet action against Poland, but it was believed more likely in Berlin that a buffer state between Germany and Russia would be formed as a result of the conquest of Poland.

American observers were busy speculating on what part Russia will play in the bloody tragedy now being staged in Europe.

DeWitt MacKenzie, foreign affairs writer for the Associated Press, said:

"All Europe has been stirred by the mobilization of a big Russian army opposite the Polish border and yesterday the Moscow newspaper Pravda attacked Poland's handling of the Russian minorities within her borders.

"Paris and other capitals grew anxious because of the widespread belief that Germany might be preparing to turn eastern Poland over to Russia. It will be recalled that when Poland was created after the World war, about 43,800 square miles came from Russia, 30,500 from Austria and 18,000 from Germany.

"So the big question of the moment is, what will Russia do. You tell me that, and I will pretty well tell you how the war is going to go."

The foreign editor of International News Services, J. C. Oestricher, had this to say:

"As the armies of Russia gathered on her western border and war-ravaged Poland was placed upon the chopping-block for her fourth and "final" partition, the ramifications of modern dynamite diplomacy began to take form and shape today.

"And a comparison with the precepts of Machiavelli became inescapable. It was that Florentine statesman who wrote that diplomacy must be "sustained by cunning, unrestrained by morals."

No one knows save Hitler and Stalin and their closest confidantes exactly what was agreed upon when German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop flew to Moscow that historic day a month ago and signed a pact joining the north and south poles of political ideology upon an equator of common gain.

"But with each new development in war-blasted Europe, it becomes increasingly obvious that the pact calls for mutual aggrandizement at the expense of anyone standing in the way.

"There is also the possibility that one is not too sure of the other. But what is apparent, is that Poland, and doubtless Rumania, Bulgaria and the Baltic states of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia ran their fates signed, sealed and delivered in the course of that strange conference in the Kremlin four weeks ago."

Captain John Houston Craige, U. S. Marine corps retired, writing interpretive stories for INS went even further and said there was a possibility that Germany and Russia planned to alter the map of the entire eastern world.

He wrote today:

"There is sensational stories afloat in Paris, London and Berlin. Paris and London are hearing confidentially that Stalin has tied himself up definitely with Hitler for a monumental deal in altering maps.

"First, the two dictators are to divide all central and eastern Europe between them while the Germans hold the allies at bay at the westwall. Then when Europe is divided up, Russia is to act as a supply base for Hitler and Mussolini while they pry Africa away from the French and English.

"With Russian backing it seems strategically and tactically possible that this might be done. It would, of course, mean the disruption of the British and French empires and would produce the greatest period of confusion and anarchy the world has seen since Rome fell.

Germans Worry, Too.

"That is the British-French nightmare. The Germans are having one of their own on the strength of a Berlin rumor that Stalin thus far has merely been leading Hitler on and now that the German army is tangled up in the Polish campaign, he is getting ready to attack the Nazis from the Baltic to the Hungarian border.

"You can take your pick as to which story to accept, but from considerable knowledge of Russia and the Russians, this writer is regretfully obliged to believe that the former is more likely than the latter. The reason is that if Stalin opposed Germany he would have to fight, and war with Germany is the thing the Russian dictator is most anxious to avoid, since it might well mean the end of him and of the communist regime.

POLES HANG ON TO CAPITAL CITY

Warsaw in Shambles, Writer Says; All Streets Show Evidence of Bombings.

Slowly they thread their way through the debris to their destinations, picking paths of safety through streets torn up into gaping holes.

Few of them bother to look any more at the destruction wrought on such a wholesale scale about them.

Cafes remain open, and in these the inhabitants of Warsaw concentrate to discuss the latest news from the front and pick whatever solace they can from the columns of newspapers.

They are almost all old men and women, these folks who have held out in Warsaw against a constant rain of terror from the skies. The children were all evacuated long ago, and the young and able-bodied are at the front or entrenched in the suburbs, fighting valiantly to stave off repeated thrusts from German advance guards.

The old folks left in Warsaw hardly bother any more to seek the city's bomb-proof shelters during air raids. They stand in the disordered streets instead, watching enemy planes dodging anti-aircraft guns and unloading their bombs at intervals.

Funeral processions through the streets are almost continuous, with the drum-fire of battle a few miles away sounding a sombre counter-point to the slow hoof-beats of the carriage horses.

This sound of battle is never absent. The Germans, however, are believed merely to be awaiting additional reinforcements to open up a new push on Warsaw.

Poles Fight Bitterly to Hold on to Lwow.

ZALESZCZYKI, Poland—(U.P.)—Polish troops, reinforced by heavy artillery, are fighting bitterly in defense of Lwow (Lemberg), messages received here today reported.

Formidable German motorized columns had succeeded in reaching the outskirts of Lwow, Poland's most important southern industrial center, but they fell back it was reported after Polish resistance showed they were unable to storm fortified approaches to the center of the city.

Dispatches indicated, however, that the Lwow defenders soon would be isolated by German columns advancing to points east of the city along routes north and south of Lwow.

One heavily motorized German column, it was reported, moved in the direction of the Rumanian frontier toward Stryi, a large oil refining center south of Lwow. Another moved northeastward toward Rawa Ruska, north of Lwow.

Lwow defenses, it was reported here, have been weakened greatly by intense artillery fire which caused heavy damage throughout the city.

Nazis Hold Half of Poland By Conquest.

BUDAPEST—(AP) — Germany's Blitzkrieg (lightning war) has added approximately half of Poland's 150,000 square miles to the Nazis' Lebensraum (living room) in two weeks of bitter fighting.

Smashing into Poland from the north, south and west and blasting down from the air, Hitler's warriors today were straddling the main highway running literally through the middle of Poland after a motorized occupation of all of western Poland except for the desperately defended peninsula containing Warsaw, which still was jutting into Nazi-conquered territory.

The Germans' swift advances and the disorganization of Poland's civil government, with its resultant lack of official statistics, made an estimate of casualties in the first fortnight of the war a mere guess.

From ann availabel information, however, Polish military losses were high. The civilian population throughout the battle zone and behind the lines also was said to have suffered severely in death, injuries and property destruction.

ORDERS TIRE DIVIDEND

AKRON — (INS) — The General Tire and Rubber company today declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 per share on the preferred stock payable Sept. 30 to stockholders of record on Sept. 20.

Mansfield Man Joins Others In Praising Vendol Medicine

Tappan Stove Co. employee declares it relieved sour stomach, gas, acid risings, palpitation, and other troubles due to constipation. Advises all to try it.

"I'm actually feeling better today than at any time in the past year, and Vendol must get all the credit for it," declared Mr. Fred W. Seith of 76 Newlon Place, Mansfield, in a recent talk with the Vendol Man who is daily meeting so many satisfied Vendol customers at Central Drug Store.

"I can't praise Vendol enough for the wonderful relief it brought me from the worst constipated condition anyone could have, and this is what caused so much distress in others ways.

"Everything I ate soured in my stomach, formed gas bloated me out and made acid risings come up in my throat that burned like fire. I often felt there was a lump in my throat which I couldn't swallow. My breath was so short that my heart would palpitate wildly. I became so nervous that my sleep was light and I was often awake several times during a night.

"If Vendol had been made for my case alone it couldn't have helped more than it did!

"After taking it along with the little Vendol laxative tablets a few days I got the most satisfying relief from constipation. Then I began to eat anything coming on the table but never having a sign of gas, acid indigestion, or palpitation later. I feel rested and strong now since my sleep is so peaceful and I am giving my experience because I feel I should let others know about Vendol, if they suffer from the same cause as mine."

MR. FRED W. SEITH

Vendol has helped many Mansfield people in the same way. Call on the Vendol Man at Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & Fourth Sts., and let him tell you all about this great Root, Herb, and Alkaline medicine. Vendol is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1939.

An international congress of students of weather has finally decided to do nothing about it.

Psychologists have about concluded that mankind's decent impulses come from the front of the brain—which may account for the receding foreheads of habitual horn honkers.

Encouraging Small Industries

ONE METHOD by which England has been trying to reduce unemployment in recent years is by establishing light industries in centers of greatest unemployment. The plan has been for the government to build factories and rent them to industrialists who hire workers and set the machinery going.

During experimental stages the government is generous as to rent, taxes and interest, so that new industries can operate at minimum costs until placed on a paying basis.

While war has an upsetting effect on any such program, early experiences were sufficiently encouraging to indicate a further spread of the plan.

The idea of small factories providing employment and contributing to the well-being of small communities has not been untried in the United States, although private capital usually provided the funds for such experiments, which sometimes succeeded and sometimes failed.

Unhappy experiences of recent years have disclosed such weaknesses in the policy of concentrating big industrial operations in extremely large cities that the present drift is toward decentralization, with likelihood of a further spread of manufacture to smaller centers of population and a diminution of efforts to attain large populations without regard to employment opportunities.

Fallacy of the idea that industry is either obligated, or in position, to provide jobs for all persons who are unemployed is gradually becoming recognized.

Rather fortunate that Spain wound up its internal warfare in time to become an interested bystander for the main bout.

New Pan-American Outlook

THERE is growing interest in the conference of republics of the Western Hemisphere which Panama has suggested. The purpose of such a gathering would be the discussion of the special problems created for this part of the world by the war in Europe.

Neutrality, the preservation of our own governmental systems, the promotion of trade among the nations of these two continents, are among the first problems pressing for consultation and solution. Many other issues will need later consideration.

Possibly the tragedy on the other side of the Atlantic will hasten the development of ...d will and co-operation on this side. The good neighbor policy of the United States, for all the fine start it has made, has not yet been able to wipe out all friction and mistrust of us existing south of the Rio Grande.

Now, however, nearly all these governments recognize that the geographical position of the Americas and their freedom from Old World entanglements and rivalries are assets which should be used to the fullest.

After extended treatment, the Chicago boy who saw things upside down now sees them right side up—if things may be regarded as being that way.

Women Jurors Show Competence

WOMEN are sitting on juries in Cook county, Illinois, this term for the first time in court history. Women jurors are an old story in Ohio and some other states, but they are still a novelty in others. Judges and court attaches in Chicago were said to be surprised at the large number of women who appeared, the eagerness they showed to serve, and the competent way in which they went to work on their first trials. Only seven of the first 118 who reported in the criminal courts building in response to a jury call asked to be excused from service.

When the 19th amendment to the Constitution gave equal suffrage to women in 1920 it did not automatically give them full responsibility in local government and civic affairs. States and communities had to grant them these additional "rights," and there seems to have been no great haste to do so.

It is generally recognized now, however, that it is a good thing to have all citizens—men and women—share in civic tasks. Women's participation in government did not effect the wholesale changes and reforms anticipated by some ardent suffragists, but it has contributed toward a growing understanding of community and governmental problems.

Several months ago a Harvard professor said that man was reverting to the ape—and occasional behavior seems to give respectable apes grounds for objection.

Ready to Serve His Country

RETURN of the Duke of Windsor, and his wife, to England, provides a bit of news which most folks have enjoyed reading.

The record of former King Edward has been such as to leave no doubt as to his willingness to perform any possible service for his country—except to give up the woman of his choice.

With Great Britain facing one of the most crucial periods in its history it is fitting that this member of the royal family should be in his homeland, ready and willing to perform any service to which he is assigned.

The seriousness of war tends to obliterate social distinctions and petty differences. The Duke of Windsor belongs in England, and his American-born wife belongs at his side.

After temporary inactivity old HCL is getting back into the alphabetical lineup in an annoying way.

Orderly Marketing

THE "food shortage" that caused a raid of family purchasing agents on the grocery stores seems to have subsided almost as quickly as it arose. The trouble in this lucky country is too much foodstuff rather than too little. So the housewives are resuming their usual buying habits.

Provisioning the American people is big business and should be done in an orderly way. But even in its normal procedure it leaves some things to be desired. For in spite of our bursting granaries, cold storage plants, and so on, it must be admitted that provisions don't get passed around very evenly.

Children howl for what they want—but when they grow up they're expected to work for it.

"EVEN I DESPISE YOU"

After Thirty-One Years

Former Resident Back for Visit

—By ADAM GRUENIG

(Editor's Note—Returning for a visit after 31 years absence, Adam Gruenig, former Mansfield resident whose home is now in Ceres, Calif., tells of changes he notices in "the old home town." You'll be interested.)

* * *

TIMES, cities and people change. This was brought forcefully to my attention on returning to Mansfield, my old home town, after an absence of more than 31 years.

My family and I left Mansfield in 1908 to make our home on the Pacific Coast, and this is my first return.

What a change has come over the county seat of Richland county! The transformation was confusing to me, and for awhile I felt like a stranger in a strange land.

Likewise the people have changed, the young ones have grown old and most of the old ones have passed to the great beyond. I visited the cemetery and familiar names of old time friends, chiseled in marble, greeted me at every turn.

A stranger coming to Mansfield by train cannot be favorably impressed by the passenger stations. With so many railroads entering the city why couldn't they all work together and have a union station which would be a credit to the city?

Most of the streets look queer to me with their brick paving, which is only one step ahead of the cobble stone paving of a century ago.

Many fine buildings have gone up in the business districts and the skyline has changed a great deal.

One sees favorable changes and improvements in many parts of the city. The new additions to the south and west are a sight to behold; the syndicate and East Mansfield have had a wonderful development.

The north part of the city, known as "the flats," has not made much headway, and some streets there look worse now than they did 31 years ago.

The street cars have disappeared to make room for auto and truck traffic, but the rails still in evidence on some streets are a disturbing factor.

The Lake park seems to have lost its quiet dignity, but I presume the young generation wants fun and action rather than solitude.

The Sherman-Heineman park used to be the west boundary of Mansfield. All beyond was farm land.

The old courthouse is still doing duty and looks bold, yet dignified. The old Goddess of Justice still looks down serenely on the hustle and bustle of city life, although newspaper editors of a half century ago proposed to take her down, contending that she was not only blind, but deaf and dumb, gagged and bound. But in spite of all, she is still at the top.

The biggest development I found is in the number and size of industrial establishments. It is amazing how many big shops have located here, making a payroll seldom equalled by a city the size of Mansfield, and which also accounts for the increase in population, which has more than doubled in 30 years.

Most all the older buildings have a smoky appearance, but this cannot be avoided, with shops and citizens using mostly coal for fuel.

The drinking water is good, but a newcomer will notice the presence of chloride, the taste of which is rather strong at times.

Mansfield may well be proud of her schools. All the old buildings are still on the job and several new ones have been added.

The churches likewise have kept up with the times and many fine church edifices grace the city.

A city's many schools and churches can only be a benefit to its residents. May they ever increase in numbers and usefulness.

What I like most are the beautiful shade trees lining the streets, giving the city a homey atmosphere.

All in all, Mansfield has made great strides since I left it and I predict that if it keeps up the pace it will become one of the great cities of the nation.

Body Changes Are Gradual

—By DR. CLENDENING

"EVERY part of the body is completely changed every seven years."

That was one of the basic principles taught in the physiology of my high school days.

A modern psychologist, my colleague, Dr. Wiggam, tags this in replying to the question, "Do psychologists get along happily with their wives?" by saying that he and Mrs. Wiggam have lived very happily together for 37 years. When he teases her for being contented with the same man so long, she replies, "But you are not the same man you were when I married you."

More a Development.

I suppose only partly. I think Dr. Wiggam would admit that while physically he has changed, it has been more a development of traits and qualities that were already present than a replacement. All the cells of his higher nervous system are still exactly intact as they were at the age of 21. His synapses are the same. Perhaps he has a few more, or a few thousand more; he is a clever man and entitled to that many.

Of course, chemically he is very different. There is probably not a single chemical atom in him that has exactly the identical particles of phosphorus or potassium as when he first voted.

Here we encounter a mystery. The nucleus of one of his nerve cells, for instance, functions exactly as it did. Vitally, from the standpoint of the life process, it is the same. But the chemicals of which it is made are renewed over and over again.

There is no authority, I think, for putting the period of our complete chemical change at seven years.

In the case of certain chemical parts of our body, however, we are told on good authority that there is a complete replacement every six years. These are the minerals, particularly calcium.

"All of our calcium," according to Drs. C. C. and S. M. Furnas, (in Man, Bread and Destiny) "is completely replaced about every six years, and the only way to maintain the balance in the body is to take in a sufficient quantity in the food. If there is insufficient intake, the body tries to make adjustment but is never completely successful. It goes on excreting calcium, taking it from the bones and teeth."

Fleeting and transitory as may be its habitation in your body during life, your chemical preservation on this earth depends on the calcium in your body at death. It alone survives "the drums and tramplings" of the centuries.

All we know of the human race's first million years on earth is the calcium-made bones and teeth that once were part of a man, a few stone chips and calcium animal bone fish hooks.

Ohio Anecdotes

Shooting Buffalo.

Herds of buffalo once roamed the Ohio countryside. An entry in Richard Butler's Journal tells of shooting the now nearly extinct animal, on Oct. 15, 1785, while en route down the Ohio river, just above the mouth of the Scioto.

Butler, who accompanied a troop under command of Capt. Walter Finney, related that after the herd was sighted by Isaac Zane, the troop hunter, three buffalo were killed.

The account relates that one animal's head weighed 129 pounds, its tongue six pounds, and the entire carcass at least 1,500. The animal was "as tall as Zane," who stood six feet, Butler wrote.

Butler's entries for the same day, included the Sunday menu, which smacked of a Thanksgiving day. Listed were: roast buffalo, buffalo and turkey soup, fried turkey, fried cat fish, roast duck, punch, madiera, claret, grog and toddy.

Words of the Wise

Whoever is wise is apt to suspect and be diffident of himself, and upon that account is willing to hearken unto counsel, whereas the foolish man, being in proportion to his folly, full of himself, and swallowed up in conceit, will seldom take any counsel but his own, and for the very reason that it is his own.—Balguy.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Quiet Afternoon.

How grateful in the rush of days
A quiet afternoon
Of sewing, mending, mind has then
The peace that is a boon.

So many rushed and hurried hours,
And then to quietly
Sit sewing, mending. Quite alone.
I often try to be

On sewing days, for always then,
As fingers do their stint,
Mind has a holiday and thought
Is freed from held intent.

From such an afternoon my heart
Eased of all tension, fret,
Turns once again, renewed to face
Whatever must be met.

TODAY IN HISTORY

The first railway abroad was opened between Liverpool and Manchester, England, on Sept. 15, 1830.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The New York home offices of the major motion picture companies are afraid that before Christmas half of their staffs will be let out. The declaration of war was a wet sponge across their order sheets, and if Canada should go on a war footing, following Britain and France, a terrific foreign sales would be eliminated.

Already most of the big-budget pictures have been cancelled. From this day on the top pictures produced by Hollywood will not go more than a third or half their former costs. It was from the foreign fields that most of Hollywood's net profits were derived. The American audiences served merely to cancel the production costs.

IN THE light of this, "Gone With the Wind" is apt to have tragic consequences for the people who sank three million dollars into its production. Even if Britain and other warring nations do use the picture, no money will be permitted to leave those countries. That is the grim actuality being faced by those who gamble for great fortunes by sinking fortunes in the cinema.

In the New York offices on Broadway most of the employes are a jittery lot. They read their mail with their hats and coats on. If a memo from "upstairs" comes down, if a call comes through from Hollywood, they hold their breaths. Each slam of the door may mean a one-way ticket into unemployment.

It may surprise you, as it did me, to learn the significance of the foreign field. I always thought that America paid the cost and the gravy, and that foreign rentals on films was just additional sugar.

APPARENTLY most of the margin of profit comes from abroad. Let's say, for example, that a picture costs a million dollars. You have to sell a lot of tickets before the percentage the producing company gets is sufficient to equal the full expenditure. But once this is achieved, the procedures are happy. The rentals from Europe, Asia, Australia and South America are net gains. If you remove these fields, or even an appreciable portion of them, prospects for a return on investments already beyond recall are pretty dim.

All of this means that stars will have to be cut from three to two thousand dollars a week. Many of the middle men will have to be eliminated. In times of stress, heads in the home offices are always the first to fall.

What this means to you who devour the Hollywood product, my confrere in Hollywood, Robbin Coons, already has pointed out. The million-dollar productions will disappear and in their places will come the small-budget pictures.

But we have an idea that ace producers, directors, writers and casts, working on limited funds, will try themselves and the result—and we will venture a ticket to the Radio City Music Hall on it if you are in a betting mood—will be better entertainment than you have had in a long time. Wasn't there something somewhere about necessity being the mother of somebody or other?

Timely Editorial

"As Usual."

We never enjoy Mrs. Roosevelt's daily column more than when it reveals some intimate little detail of the life in the first family. As, for instance, this:

"After lunch yesterday, my brother wanted to go over to look at a barn (on the Hyde Park estate) which the President is interested in changing into a house. As usual, the President thinks it can be done far more economically than the rest of us do. I was glad to have my brother bear me out, but our combined arguments had no effect on the President, who said cheerfully, 'Well, we will wait and see,' with the calm conviction that he could perform miracles."

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Inside reason for delaying the official call reconvening congress was White House Secretary Steve Early.

Roosevelt had decided to issue the summons upon his return from Hyde Park Monday. But Saturday night, at a party with newspapermen at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Early, in an expansive mood, tipped them off on what was going to happen and they spilled the story Monday morning.

Miffed at the disclosure, Roosevelt promptly dropped his plan in order to discredit their stories. He also called in Early and gave him a sharp dressing down for talking too much. This was the second time in a week he lectured Early.

The first occasion was Early's statement to White House reporters that no censorship was contemplated "for the present." As the newsmen had not raised the question, Early's volunteered "assurance" aroused widespread suspicion and a flood of inquiries as to what lay behind it.

Some of these inquiries got to Roosevelt and he reprimanded Steve for talking out of turn.

Roosevelt Error.

SOME of Roosevelt's advisers wish that he himself might have been called on the carpet for his announcement of a "limited emergency."

Just what prompted this action is unknown, for none of the reasons which he gave approached a "limited emergency." The increased army and navy personnel could have been ordered without such a declaration since this increase already had been authorized by congress.

Some administrationites believe the move was prompted by Roosevelt's desire to bring home forcibly to the country the gravity of the situation facing it as a result of the European conflict.

If that was the reason its effectiveness is doubtful; for returning members of congress report that the chief reaction was to scare the public and spread the fear that the president was warmongering.

Italian Lowdown.

AN OFFICIAL of the U. S. embassy in Rome, driving through the streets, came upon the entrance of Mussolini's residence, just as the Duce was coming out in his car. The U. S. official remarked to his chauffeur, an Italian, that Mussolini did not look very happy.

"He has nothing to be happy about these days," said the chauffeur. He then added that he and all his friends in Rome were bitter against the Axis, and said, "We are praying for war." "Why?" "Because if there is war, they will have to give us guns, and a gun shoots both ways."

Various reports of American officials in Italy state they hardly ever hear a word spoken in support of the Axis policy, and that the Italian people hate the Germans with vitriolic venom. During Hitler's visit to Rome, there were two instances of persons, on the main avenues, in the daylight, with police evidence, spitting at the passing figures of Nazi members of Hitler's party.

These reports indicate that, if Italy goes with Hitler, Il Duce's forces will be of no great value.

"I would put one French soldier against three Italians," reported one U. S. observer. Also, Italy is highly vulnerable to any kind of attack, there being no sizeable city anywhere in the country which cannot immediately be reached by sea or air. And as soon as such attack begins, Italian resistance will crumple up.

For Italy to go in on Hitler's side, furthermore, would mean everything to lose and little to gain. She would immediately lose all Mediterranean possessions, as well as the property at home which would be devastated by air and marine attack.

If, on the other hand, she casts her lot with the Allies, she can demand her price in concessions from France.

It is interesting that both ends of the Brenner Pass are heavily guarded even though Italy and Germany are supposed to be friendly allies. Once when asked the reason for this, Mussolini said cryptically, "It is a border."

Mussolini's popularity has greatly increased in the last few days as a result of his neutrality. The country has breathed a great sigh of relief, after fearing that war by Germany immediately would bring war by Italy.

But Italy cannot preserve her neutrality long, and Mussolini must face the unhappy alternative of breaking the Axis and losing face (not to mention the possible invasion of Italy by Germans through the Brenner) or preserving his Axis pledge at the risk of domestic revolt. There is good reason for him to draw a long face.

All this leads to the official belief that Britain and France soon will serve notice on Italy that she must fish or cut bait—that her neutrality, which offers obstructions to them, cannot longer be maintained.

Note—Mussolini conceals his age, so that he may continue to be the leader of the Fascist movement, the essence of which is youth. But he is not as strong as he once was, suffering severely from stomach ulcers.

Through Back Door.

BERNARD BARUCH, multi-millionaire head of Wilson's War Industries Board, denied a place on the board recently set up by Roosevelt, has wangled a foothold in the agency through the back door by becoming the confidential adviser of Chairman Edward R. Stettinius, jr. . . . Distressed by the discovery that certain federal district attorneys in large cities have personal publicity agents on their staffs, meticulous Attorney General Frank Murphy has quietly issued orders to eliminate them immediately. They got the publicity agent idea from District Attorney Tom Dewey, who employs several. . . . Penetrating observation made by Senator Bob Reynolds, North Carolina's self-styled "international authority," during a speech on the senate floor last July: "There isn't going to be any war in Europe. Anyone who says that is foolish."

Garden Snails

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

IN THE heavy dews of summer mornings, I have watched tiny snails, exact images of their parents, glide on the stems of my choice lettuce leaves. With much misgivings, I saw them eat holes in the under sides until I could see their slow, constant movements. The little shells were perfect, and when I shook the leaf and not a single one let go, I caught a tiny shell between my thumb and forefinger, and quickly the little fellow drew himself into his house and remained motionless. The shining trail he had made up the long midrib glistened in the morning sun. Even though the rascals were eating my lettuce, I smiled at such a tiny specimen of a snail leading so near an adult life, and wondered how long since he had crawled from the egg.

This morning after a light rain, I walked through my rows of beans, looking for Mexican beetles, and as I turned some stalks toward the light, I saw a snail shell half buried in the soil. I placed my finger on the top and pushed it into the middle of the row. At first I thought it empty, but when I lifted it, the weight betrayed an occupant.

Then I examined the hollow at the base of the bean stalk, and when I put my finger in, found some objects, soft, moist and yielding. I pulled the topsoil off as carefully as possible, and through the glass, counted twenty dark grayish eggs, the first such I have ever seen. I surmised the mother snail had just completed this natural task when I came upon her. I marked this spot that I might know how long this clutch of eggs will take to hatch. My late garden is not only interesting for the beans it grows, but interest centers in that little mound of earth where the new family of snails will soon emerge.

These sluggish, slimy creatures, in their prime are not devoid of romance, either. When lad and lassie snail met for the first time they cast flinty, hornlike love darts at each other and when they hit, I do not doubt it is fatal and binding for the entire summer season.

The classic winged Cupid with his quiver was not the first to draw his bow and send an arrow unerringly to his victim. Perhaps Beau Brummel Snail was casting arrows long before the sprightly Cupid ever sprang full grown from the classic poet's brain.

CHAPTER V.

"You have a lot of that in Hollywood?"

"We do, but it's such a different kind of outdoors that there ought to be another name for it."

"But you enjoy it all? You love your work?"

"Much of the time, yes. But there is repetition and more or less of what must be called drudgery. Have you seen any of my pictures?"

"Yes, I saw 'The Young Lady of Niger.' I thought it very amusing."

"Good! I'm glad you did. I like it best of all I've done. I've just finished 'Doubting Castle.' I hope you will like that, but it won't be on for a long time yet. It's very good of you to have me here, and it's a lovely experience for me. I am so seldom in a home. A real home, I mean. With a living room and dining room and all. I shall always carry my memory pictures of Silver Hall among my favorites. Have you always lived there?"

"Oh, no, only since the death of my brother's wife. That was ten years ago, and I came to keep house for him, and have been here ever since."

"He's fortunate in having a devoted sister. And the boys, too. How they all adore you."

"They do. They're good boys. Craig, of course, is my pet."

"Why?"

"I hardly know. He is the son of my older brother, and his parents both died when he was little. I took him then and I suppose that is why he seems nearer to me than Tom, who has been with me only a few years.

"They're fine chaps, but to me Tom seems difficult to get at. He is like a minosa plant; you speak to him, and he shuts right up into himself."

"Yes, he does. Tomorrow, you must have a hobnob with him. He improves with acquaintance."

* * *

And then cocktails came round. The crowd closed in, and they stood near together, laughing and chattering.

As Yvette had anticipated, Everett Ames drew toward her, and asked in a half whisper, "What did you mean by what you said in the car?"

"That we'd wander? Well, why not? Right after supper?"

Ames nodded assent, and then Craig claimed Yvette and took her to the lavishly spread table, and placed her at the right hand of her host.

And Yvette Verne, the motion picture star, looked just shy enough and just coy enough to seem to be fitting herself into her rightful place.

On Sunday morning, the day after the picnic, the house seemed deserted. The women kept their rooms and some of the men had gone to play golf. Craig wandered around like a lost spirit, wondering when Yvette would come downstairs.

Hetty saw him, and with the privilege of an old servant, said, "You won't see the sweet face you're lookin' for, so soon, Mr. Craig. She's hobnobbin' with Mrs. Lee, and they're talkin' right straight along, like a non-stop train of cars. . . . Say, Mr. Craig, shall I drop a hint to Miss Verne? Just a word, you know, that'll show her how the land lies?"

"Could you do that adroitly, Hetty?"

"Couldn't I just?"

Hetty disappeared up the stairs. She went straight to Laura Lee's room, and giving a light tap and entering at the same time, her vaunted adroitness took this form.

"Just a word, ladies, may I speak? You see, it's this way—Mr. Craig is sittin' down there a mopin' like a three-legged lamb. He wants somebody to 'sociate with, and I'm a wondering' if one of you two ladies wouldn't go down and cheer him up. He's my boy, and a smart one."

"Yes, he is," Yvette agreed. "I'll go and dress, Laura, and we'll both go down and cheer his loneliness."

Yvette turned her attention to her wardrobe, and chose a white knitted silk sports suit, with black frogs and loops, and a white hat with a very cocky black feather. She went along the hall, moving with the same careful grace she would have shown, in making a picture.

In a sense she was always acting, because, with her, to live was to act and her movements and poses were all so perfect that it was a joy to watch her. And when Craig Madison saw this paragon of all the virtues coming toward him, he jumped up and ran to meet her.

"Shall we go for a walk?" he asked, eagerly. "Quick, before anybody comes to spoil it?"

"Yes, come along," and Yvette held out her hand, which Craig grasped and led her swiftly down the long hall and out the back door to the gardens.

They went on, through the gardens and across a field and entered a little piece of woods, where the sunlight drew traceries on the leaf-strewn ground. There was a rustic settee, and they sat down, quiet for a moment, at the peace and beauty of the scene.

"Ive been wanting to get you alone," he said, "to thank you for coming. How could you get away, when you must have had heaps of engagements in the city?"

"Yes, I did. But I just broke them all. I made two enemies for life, hurt deeply the feelings of a dear friend and lost a really big business opportunity, but—I wanted to come, so I came."

"And you came just because you wanted to see me, didn't you?"

Craig's handsome face looked roguish as he awaited her answer.

"Not entirely," she said, frankly; "but you told of such a dear homey sort of place, I just felt a longing to see it, so I came."

"And you're glad you did?"

"Oh, yes, but it's over so soon. I must go back tomorrow."

"Why must you?"

"Week-end parties always let out on Monday."

"This one doesn't. Do stay over a day or two longer."

"Not on your invitation."

"On Aunt Cornelia's, then? Or Uncle Harley's?"

"Yes, either of them. But it must be spontaneous. You're not to put them up to it. I like them both too much to impose on their hospitality."

"Well, something tells me they'll invite you. They like you, you see. I say, do you know you seem different from that day I saw you at Amy Crosby's. You've more life, more color—more glamour."

Yvette laughed out.

"And why not, foolish boy? That day I was angry, in a jam, bothered by that man who was with me when you came, not very well dressed or made up, in fact, I was unhappy. Now, here I am, among friendly, congenial people, in a charming home, wearing my best clothes, and as much make-up as I dare for fear of Aunt Cornelia—and—having a tete-a-tete with you! What more could I want, and why shouldn't all this make me look more contented, happier and—better-looking?"

"Yes, I think all those things have made the difference. I hope you got out of the jam successfully."

"Yes, I did. It was a business matter. That man who was making himself obnoxious, was one of the assistant directors, and he wanted to tell me how to read my part. Well, never mind about him."

"He sounded as if he were discussing a more personal matter, but you know best.

"Yes, I ought to. He is a bad man, don't let's talk about him."

"No, we won't. Are you enjoying it here?"

"Yes, I am. Everybody is lovely to me, and yet—what is it, Craig? I seem to sense undercurrents, unspoken thoughts, unvoiced opinions. Are we all sincere? Are you? Am I?"

Craig looked at her in astonishment.

"I don't think I quite get you."

"Perhaps it doesn't matter."

"This matters, though. There is an undercurrent in my thoughts, which will not be stilled; which keeps me wondering and thinking and despairing, by turns. Can you help me to quiet it? Can you guess what it is, and do you care?"

The last words were spoken with the earnest face near her own, with the imploring eyes looking into her startled ones, and with Craig's arm daringly creeping round her shoulder.

"Don't tell me," she begged, pushing him gently away, "no, I can't guess, and I don't want to try. Not now, not here. I'm changeable, you know, I'm fickle; I'm one thing today and another tomorrow. And just now, I'm in danger, yes, real danger, but you can't help me. Nobody can help me, unless—oh, never mind, forget it."

"Forget it! I shall think of nothing else, until you tell me it is a thing of the past. Is it money trouble? For I can help that."

The ball is staged annually by the recreation club with the proceeds being used to purchase police equipment and the annual supply of ammunition for target practice.

BROTHERS END LONG SEPARATION

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—(U.P.)—Paths, separated for 48 years, crossed here when two brothers were re-united. Francis M. Young, when he was born at Fairview, Utah, Feb. 14, 1891, missed his first opportunity to meet an older brother, Brigham J., because he was born one month after Brigham had gone to Fairview for his father's funeral.

When Francis returned home from work, Brigham was waiting to greet him for the first time.

CLAN WELCOMES MACNEIL HOME

New York Architect Buys Old Castle on Island.

LONDON—(U.P.)—After 100 years the chief of the Clan MacNeil has come home to live again in the castle from which his ancestors ruled for hundreds of years.

The MacNeil, of Barra is Robert Lister MacNeil, 49-year-old New York architect, who visited the castle on the isle of Barra on his honeymoon. He and his wife bought the castle and started restoration last year.

"It is the aim of my wife and myself to make part of the castle habitable," MacNeil said when he arrived recently at Southampton. "About 60 per cent of the walls are intact and a tremendous covering of debris has been cleared away."

The MacNeil was authorized on his petition to the Lord Lyon king-of-arms in 1915 to assume "the ensigns armorial pertaining to the chiefs of Barra." He is the 45th hereditary chief.

Just about 100 years ago the chiefs of Barra became landless. The clan had been in possession of the property for 900 years. It consists of 9,800 acres which were given up because of widespread economic depression a century ago—particularly owing to the failure of the kelp industry.

The MacNeil visited the island as a boy. He made subsequent visits and recently published a history of the clan.

In 1936 with his bride he visited Barra and arranged for the purchase of the castle on property formerly owned by the late Lady Gordon Cathcart.

Islanders enthusiastically welcomed the chief and held a banquet for him and his wife.

Remove Bodies of 26 Who Perished as Squalus Sank

NAVAL BOARD BEGINS CHECK OF SUBMARINE

Inquiry Opens as Rescuers Complete Task of Lifting Victims From Craft.

BULLETIN

PORTSMOUTH—(AP)—A possibility that the sea might hold forever one of the 26 victims of the U. S. S. Squalus arose today when grim naval officials were able to find only 25 of the bodies entombed for 115 days in the battered submarine now lying in drydock here.

(By International News Service)

PORTSMOUTH, N. H.—Bodies of the 26 victims of the submarine Squalus disaster were removed today from the aft compartments of the salvaged submersible while a naval board of inquiry opened final hearings in an effort to determine the exact cause of the sea tragedy.

The first five bodies, positively identified by finger print experts from Washington, were those of:

John P. Hathaway, fireman, first class, LaPorte, Ind.

Joshua Casey, fireman, first class, Grand Ridge, Fla.

Eugene A. Hoffman, machinist, first class. Cleveland.

Huiek McAfee. electrician's mate, second class, Eastern Point, Ga.

John A. Chestnutt, chief machinist's mate, Oakland, Cal.

The bodies were taken from the forward engine room and removed to the naval hospital morgue to await claiming by relatives.

Only Squalus victim to be buried in Arlington National cemetery will be Ensign J. H. Patterson.

The medical corps in charge of removing the bodies screened its activities by erecting a high board fence on the deck of the submarine. Behind this screen the bodies were brought up to the deck, wrapped in sheets and taken up an improvised gangplank to the dock. From this point they were taken to the morgue for identification. Some of their shipmate survivors looked on.

The salvaged submarine was brought into drydock only after a night of anxious effort. Water, pouring back into the battery room, despite constant pumping, kept the stern of the vessel down for hours. Finally, a rising tide and continued flow of compressed air brought up the heavy stern and the $5,000,000 sub was eased into drydock.

The court of inquiry, which had recessed after holding preliminary hearings following rescue of 33 survivors via a diving bell four months ago, resumed its investigation in an effort to determine why the Squalus plunged to the bottom. Witnesses included salvage workers and Squalus crew members. The board members inspected the ill-starred vessel in dry dock.

W. C. T. U. Erects 2 Signs Near City To Warn Drivers

Two illuminated road signs will be erected on highways near Mansfield this month by two units of the Richland County Women's Christian Temperance Union.

The signs have been ordered and will be set up within the next week or two by the Frances Willard and Iota Sigma W. C. T. U. chapters who obtained permission from the state highway department to erect the signs.

Both are made of reflecting glass which is illuminated by approaching headlights and are swinging signs suspended on an iron post.

The one on route 42, south of Mansfield and not far from the corporation line, will bear the words: "A Friendly Glass May Cause an Unfriendly Crash." Beneath the inscription will be two hands holding "friendly glasses."

The second one, which will be erected at the top of Ashland hill, will have the inscription: "Safety First—Don't Drink. Travel Safely." Beneath the words will be the outline of two wrecked cars.

Similar signs are being erected throughout the country by the W. C. T. U.

FACES CHARGE

Mansfielder Accused of Violating State Liquor Code.

Anderson Chick, colored, 272 North Franklin avenue, will be arraigned before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court tomorrow on a charge of violating the state liquor code by refilling a whisky bottle.

Chick was arrested Wednesday night by police who said they raided his establishment and confiscated a quantity of hard cider, part of which was in a bottle containing a state liquor seal.

$40,000 Water Program Opens In Week

Up and Down THE STREET

County commissioners and County Engineer Howard Sword viewed with pride this afternoon the results of their summer road program. The three commissioners and the engineer, with a few friends, left at 3 p. m. in automobiles to test the smoothness of about 90 miles of roads that were resurfaced under a $70,000 PWA program. Even before they left, C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the commissioners, said: "No county in the state has better roads than we have right here."

Holding a mad bull by the tail doesn't present much more of a problem than holding a rabbit by the ears on a busy street intersection. F. W. Bellnap, 2 Park drive, was in the Citizens National Bank and Trust company this morning when a wild rabbit hopped in through the door. Bellnap chased the bunny around the marble floor and finally captured it. Holding it by the ears, Bellnap went to the street. He offered it to a number of interested passersby with no takers. In sheer desperation finally he thrust it at a man in a car which had stopped for the traffic light at Third and Main. "Here, take this," he begged, and to his surprise the man reached out, garnered in the kicking animal, and drove on.

There is a display in the exhibit case of the Mansfield Public library which will interest Mansfielders. It is old prints and pictures of "Places In Mansfield Made Famous by the Bromfield Novels." Included in the collection are exterior and interior prints of the old Jones home, on Oak Hill, which is generally believed to the the Castle Shane of "Green Bay Tree"; pictures of the John Sherman house on Park avenue west and other houses on the same street which were taken before there were any trees there. Most interesting however, is a photograph of the town square on "hog day" when sleds piled high with frozen hog carcasses gathered before the old courthouse in Central park.

That commotion in the downtown district last night was nothing more than the first "snake dance" of the year as a string of more than 200 Mansfield high school students paraded through the streets. The "snake dance" originated at the Columbia Tire field where a huge bonfire marked the first of a series of football "pep" meetings. Coaches and members of the high school squad, which opens its season Saturday, were introduced at the rally.

WOMAN HEADS CIVIL SERVICE

Bricker Names Gertrude Jones, of Findlay, as Chairman of State Commission.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — Miss Gertrude Jones, of Findlay, a graduate of Bryn Mawr school for girls and Republican state committee woman, today was named a member and chairman of the state civil service commission by Governor Bricker.

The 47-year-old daughter of the late George Jones, Findlay banker, thus became the first woman to be appointed to a major state post since Bricker took office.

Named for a four-year term to the $4,000-a-year job, she succeeds Ralph W. Emmons, of East Rochester, whose term expired August 30. As chairman she replaces Carl Smith, Kenton Democrat, who still has a year to serve on the commission.

Arriving at the governor's office following announcement of her appointment, Miss Jones told newspapermen:

"I was quite surprised. I hope to do a good job."

She said she was very much interested in the "woman's angle" of civil service because there were so many women in the employ of the state.

"I have felt for some time that women should have representation on the commission," Miss Jones declared.

She said she had discussed possibility of her appointment to the post once before with Bricker.

SECOND ATTACK BY SWARM OF BEES COSTS LIFE OF FARMER, 61

ASHLAND—Yesterday, for the second time in his life, Willard D. Bruckhart, 61, was stung by a swarm of bees. The first time, he was made seriously ill. The second time it cost him his life.

Mr. Bruckhart had been working in the barn on his farm near Paradise Hill yesterday and stirred up a nest of yellow jackets. They stung him about the face and neck.

Returning to the house, he told his wife, Cora, "They chased me out."

She began to bathe the swollen places, when her husband complained of being nauseated.

She ran a quarter of a mile to the home of a neighbor to call a doctor, but when she returned, her husband was dead.

Surviving besides the widow are a daughter, Mrs. Claud Griffin, near Greenwich, three sisters, Mrs. J. W. Stoner and Miss Sarah Bruckhart, Ashland, and Elizabeth Bruckhart, Nova; two brothers, Frank and Joseph of Nova, and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Paradise Hill church with burial in the Imhoff cemetery.

PROJECT CALLS FOR EXTENSIONS ON 5 STREETS

WPA Assigns 100 to Job Held Up Four Months; Work to Start Next Friday.

After a four-month delay due to the lack of assignments by WPA, work is scheduled to start next Friday on the city's 1939 water development program.

The project which calls for the construction of nearly a mile of new water lines on five different streets, involves the expenditure of $40,634.

Designed to provide employment for approximately 150 men for a three-month period, it is expected that 100 men will go to work Friday from new assignments to be made by WPA, Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist said.

It is believed that the workers would include those who were laid off last month by the federal government's 18-month rule providing they have applied at relief headquarters for recertification.

City's Share $16,699.

Of the total amount of the project, the city's share is estimated at $16,699 which will be used to purchase materials including the pipe for the project, while the government's share has been estimated at $23,935 for labor.

The improvements include the construction of 4,260 feet of new eight-inch mains on Woodland road from Andover road to Russell road; 800 feet of six-inch line on Grover avenue from Lexington to Sturges avenue; 660 feet of six-inch main on Lincoln avenue South Diamond street to the end; Fifth avenue, Orange to Grace streets, 1,630 feet of six-inch line, and School road, from Clifton avenue south 430 feet of six-inch line, and 770 feet of four-inch main.

City council authorized the work early this year and appropriated $13,500 from the waterworks surplus to finance the major portion of the city's share.

4 DISQUALIFIED

Board Rules Out Petitions of Rural Candidates.

Four candidates for township offices were disqualified last night by the county board of elections because their petitions failed to meet state election requirements.

Ruled out by the board were Sylvester J. Houston, 445 Glessner avenue, candidate for Madison township clerk; Rolland J. Chamberlain, R. D. 4, Mansfield, who filed for Madison township trustee; John S. Shaffer and K. R. McConkie of Bellville, candidates for Jefferson township trustee.

Houston's petition lacked 17 signatures of the required 146 and Chamberlain's was 15 short. Shaffer and McConkie were disqualified because both filed on the same petition, an illegal procedure when there is only one person to be elected to the office they seek, the board said.

The election board's action leaves 286 candidates in the field for village and township offices.

GALION—Henry S. Coleman, 87, died early today at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Frank Thomas, following an illness of a year.

Mr. Coleman had made his home in Galion for the past seven years, coming here from Bellefontaine. He is survived by three children, D. G. Coleman of Coshocton, S. E. of Bellefontaine and Mrs. Thomas, 10 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

The body was removed to the Kennedy funeral home at Bellefontaine.

FEAR DOOM

ORAIBI, Ariz.—(U.P.)—Hopi Indians living in this vicinity have been given a sign that the end of the world is near. A 9-year-old white mule gave birth recently to a colt. For such a hybrid to have offspring is rare, and for the Indians traditions it spells the end of the earth. The Indians took one look at what they termed the "unnatural phenomenon" and shuffled off to their prayers.

CONDUCT METICULOUS

PASADENA, Cal.—(U.P.)—Dr. Michael A. Iogolevitch, former noted Russian surgeon, called to testify in a civil suit, refused to sit down when, after being sworn in, his attorney told him to "be seated." "In a hall of justice," Dr. Iogolevitch told the court, "one never sits down until ordered by his honor." "His Honor" issued the necessary order.

GEN. JOHNSON:

British Are Smart In Making Plans To Fight Long War Against Hitler

—By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—The announcement of a British plan for a war for three years, or until Hitlerism is wiped off the earth, is good policy. The opening error in most wars has been to expect a short and hilarious picnic—"all over before the snow flies."

It rarely happens that way and the results of expecting that are usually insufficient preparation and stunning defeats. The Allied slogan toward the end of the World war was: "Plan as though it was going to last forever. Fight as though you end it tomorrow."

But this British announcement will bear a little thought. What is Hitlerism? Is it different from Stalinism, or Fascism or Japanism? Isn't it just a creed of international greedy force which will take by arms whatever it thinks it can snatch?

It is too early to be sure, but just now it looks as though Britain couldn't wipe out Hitler without wiping out Stalin and Mussolini. The Japs may break out in a new place at any time. This "wiping out" business may turn out to be a pretty large order for three years or 10 years.

Then comes the question about what is going to be used for money? Britain is far from being self-contained. She can't fight without money or credit. Her debt from the last war is an overwhelming burden. The cost of "wiping out Hitlerism" could treble it—which would be more than all the money there is. Not much hope for credit there.

It is true that all the kibitzers said in 1914 that the financial structure of the nations would not support six months of modern war—and it lasted more than four years. But that was before the world was bent double by debt and strangled with taxes. Nations which have the materials for war within their borders can fight without much money or credit. But England and France can't.

Let's pass that and say, somehow, general war can go on for three years. What will the world look like at the end? Its debt will probably be much more than its wealth and its taxes more than its income. Its reserves of food and necessaries may be gone. Its industries and its communications are likely to be largely in ruins.

Worst of all, when general peace descends, if ever, it will find nearly all human effort and all mechanical production working either in armies or on war supplies. Both jobs will suddenly cease. For a long period of readjustment there will be no other work ready.

The suffering and unemployment we see now or saw in March, 1933, are trifling compared to what will happen. Furthermore, governments made bankrupt by war can do little to relieve that suffering. Will any existing European political system survive a mess like that?

Yet, that is precisely the mess which we are daily and constantly told we can't avoid—that our destinies are so closely entwined with the "peace-loving countries" that we can't keep out.

It is poisonous nonsense. We couldn't help much except with money if we did get in. We could shortly dilute our strength with the world's weakness. We can do much more for decency by remaining strong and solvent and keeping out.

Let's stay on the curb.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—First they build it, then they tear it down, or burn it up. That's what they did up in Idaho—some 7,000 feet up—for the destruction of the St. Francis settlement in "Northwest Passage."

M-G-M was spending $21,000 a day up there, for nearly seven weeks. It gives you an idea that maybe this color film about Major Robert Rogers (Spencer Tracy) and his great band of Rangers will be slightly colossal. Everybody at Metro will give you the idea, even if you don't get it otherwise.

One of the big scenes shows the "bridge of hands" by which the Rangers crossed a turbulent, rapid-like river. They did it up in Idaho, but for a close-up or two the boys—Tracy, Walter Brennan, Bob Young, and the rest—had to do it again in the studio "tank," where technical genius and hundreds of thousands of gallons of water combined to duplicate the rush of the tearing, swirling current.

Next day Tracy was ill, but Ole Gran'pa Brennan was on hand store teeth in mouth, whiskers flourishing, hair wild—to avow and declare that of all the locations he in his 15 years or so of movie-making had attended, this trek to Idaho was the biggest, best, and worst.

"A lot of folks," averred Walter, "might thing a location is all beer and skittles, and that the actor's life is soft. I'm here to go on record that we worked, and plenty. Five-thirty in the morning to six at night, or more—and I mean work. Going through those swamps—now, that was something. A fellow couldn't tell one minute to the next when he'd be over his head. I found myself holes to step in plenty of times, and so did the others. We were always dunking ourselves. And did you ever try to work at 7,000 feet, when you could hardly breathe? Well, it's an experience.

"The burning of St. Francis by the Indians—we had 'em from all the reservations around — was something to see. All those buildings soaked with gasoline, all wired to electric switches to time the burning right, and going up in flames. It's great stuff in color. And the scenery we've got, the clouds. . . . Well, I better not talk about it, 'cause I remember telling all my friends about a picture I was in, what a colossal movie it was going to be, and then I saw the preview and spent the next two weeks apologizing."

Seriously, it doesn't look as if Brennan will have to "apologize" for anything he says on this one. King Vidor is making it, with Norman Foster as associate director, and the talk is that Tracy has another of those Tracy performances wrapped up. Also, there's Bob Young, surprising a lot of people by his work as Longdon Towne (the role of Bob Taylor), probably to his regret by now, turned down). And Brennan, of course—who'll go from this straight into the role of Grandpa in "Grapes of Wrath."

For Bob Young, if he's as good as his fellow actors insist he is, "Northwest Passage" should be the passage he's been looking for, these several years, into the bigger things of Hollywood.

She Turned Tables On Husband

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"In this day of clubs," writes a woman correspondent, "I have an idea for a club which would straighten out more matrimonial tangles than any suppression up to date.

"In my case," she continues, "it happened to be previous heredity. I was my husband's secretary before we were married. In the first years of our marriage we were prosperous, things ran smoothly, we had a nice car and a home almost paid for. Then the lean years set in. I was a good sport, gave up the one maid I had, though with four little children it wasn't easy.

"You know what the care of four children means when one of them is a baby, and there is the everlasting milk formula, vegetable straining, diaper washing, aiming to be looked out for, besides the demands of the older children, meals, and running the house.

"The only assistance I had was a high school girl who came in to wash the supper dishes, and I did engage diaper service for the baby, after I found out how much time it took to care for diapers.

"I knew my husband was worried about his business. He is the type of man who, when things don't go smoothly is contentious, rude and sarcastic, and for this reason he had lost a good deal of his trade.

"Seeing me read the paper one evening, while the high school girl washed the dishes seemed to get on his nerves, and he said he wished he had nothing to do but read the paper and stay home, that it would be positive vacation for him if he could do my work.

"That got me. Miss Fairfax, as 6 o'clock in the morning was my rising hour to get the day really started, and I seldom went to bed before 11. I waited until I was perfectly cool and there wasn't a trace of anger in my voice, and said:

"'Dear! You stay home and run the house for two weeks and I'll go to your office. Are you game?' I kept right after him from morning 'til night when he finally agreed. Now, I wasn't going to trust my precious baby's digestion to his messing with the milk formula, so I got the milk bottles ready and in the refrigerator before I started to work, and there was nothing to do but warm them.

"For the first few days it was like heaven. The decent orderly routine of even a struggling business was divine after the helter skelter work of tending to four children, cooking, and so on.

"When I got home those first evenings, we sat down to a good dinner, minus dessert, which caused something of a mutiny among the children. He was glad to have the high school girl in to do the dishes, you may believe.

"Then I found that a note for $500 would be due at the office by the 15th of the month. I asked my husband about it. He said he had made no provisions for paying and didn't know where he'd get the money. I looked into all the sources of credit open to us. A certain bank finally agreed to lend me the money at a higher-than-usual rate of interest. I talked it out with my husband. There was nothing else to do but accept these terms.

"At the end of the first week, my husband begged to take over his own job, and as two of the children had colds from wet feet, and the baby had colic from milk given him not properly warmed, I agreed to go back, but believe me I enjoyed being in the office.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I spent an enchanted quarter hour in the nursery, feeling as if I had reached a green and safe oasis in a desert of mystery and menace. With Faith in my arms, and Junior and Roderick, their military mannerisms laid aside, sitting on stools at my feet with their faces lifted to mine, I talked and listened and laughed. Determined that no hint of care should mar the idyllic moments.

I realized, of course, Katharine had devised this patrol and sentinel work to keep them occupied. The success of it was mirrored in their excited and shining eyes when we came in, but I sensed that they were glad to drop their cares for a few minutes and revel in being small, petted boys again.

But when the quarter hour was up that I had allotted myself, I was proud of the way they reacted to my reluctant announcement that I must leave them for a time, but would come back as soon as I could.

"That's okay, Mums," Junior said with dignity. "We know something awful important is going on around here, and we can't expect things to be the way they generally are. But," the boyish eagerness shone suddenly through, "you will come back as soon as you can, won't you?"

"You will, won't you?" Junior echoed, and Baby Faith, with an enchanting smile, patted my cheek and said, "Ma-ma—come back," in another echo.

"I'll be back as quickly as ever I can," I said, and both boys snapped to attention.

"We'll see you out," they said in a business-like way, and they marched Lillian and me through the door in military fashion, giving us no more than a second for a hail and farewell to Katharine, smiling amusedly in the background.

I looked at my wrist watch as we came out into the corridor.

"We have 15 minutes before we have to awaken Father," I said. "Suppose we go into my room and draw our respective breaths. I want to ask you a few things, too."

"I hope I know all the answers," she said, smiling, and then we were inside my room, where I always come with a feeling of sanctuary. Sitting down in comfortable chairs, we rested for a few minutes in the blessed silent companionship of old friends who do not need words.

"Do you mind if I talk now?" I asked after a little, and when I saw her shoot a searching glance in my direction. I knew that she had recognized the tenseness in my voice.

"Talk your fool head off and see if I care," she retorted, grinning at me companionably, and I knew that she was trying to ease the tension of my mood.

"I wondered if you knew whether or not Father expects you and me to stay down here indefinitely. You know I promised Dicky that I would stay near him in New York, and he doesn't even know I'm gone. I didn't dare telephone or telegraph him, because I was afraid Father didn't want anybody to know about this."

"No more he did," Lillian replied quickly, "but I sent a blind message to the Dicky-bird, just the same."

"Oh! you darling!" I exclaimed. "I might have known. What did you tell him?"

"I sent him a telegram saying G. S. M. compelled to go Harbor Farm for two days. Telephone him there reverse if you need him."

"I see," I said. "My initials are reversed, and the farm, and you said 'him' instead of 'her'! Yet, it looks as if you wanted him to put in a collect call. But he'll get it, don't you think?"

He'll Get Out.

"Don't insult your spouse's intelligence!" she adjured me, laughing. "Of course he'll get it, especially as I signed it 'Tan,' last three letters of my name, you see, which happen to spell a perfectly gorgeous Highland monicker."

"Then I don't need to worry about that particular thing any more," I said. "But, Lillian, suppose Dicky needs me before I can get away from here?"

"Well," Lillian said comfortably, "he probably won't need you before your father wakens and outlines his campaign to his aids. Then I'll tackle him and find out how long he's going to need us on the job here."

Iron Out Those Wrinkles

By MME. QUI VIVE

Slick back locks have been in favor for a long time. Years and years in fact. Hairdressers suggest pompadour effects to put over the naughty nineties fashions, coiffure stylists shout about the soft, silky charm of bangs, but nothing happens. Foreheads are out in the open for all to see. Rolls atop the head gave a new lease on life to the upswept idea. Highbrow, that's what we are!

It is a lovely vogue, else it would not have continued all this time. It imparts an appearance of freshness as if the pretty creature had just stepped out of her bath and got into her grand dry goods. It's a bit tough on the woman whose beauty petals have fallen—women who are no longer young, women with little gullies between their eyes, railroad tracks across their foreheads.

Because everybody's doing it, everybody does. Except Mrs. Smarty who, though she makes her own fashion laws, still belongs to the day and the moment. If her noble brow shows tissue ruts she parts her hair on the side, lets it fall forward slightly or she chops off a cute little fringe that serves as a kindly curtain. She does not look dowdy. Nor does she belongs to a past period. She has individuality. The rest of her head conforms.

Frown lines are a common beauty grief. Few women of middle age are free of them; many under thirty have them. They are self inflicted, unless they are due to impaired vision, which can be corrected by the wearing of glasses. The trouble is that women are not conscious of frowning. They don't realize they are doing it. It is the duty of some member of the family to bawl them out.

Be tranquil, control your emotions and you won't get them. Women who are steady smilers seldom have them. Those who are easily irritated or who do not practice tolerance pull their eyebrows together. The creases that result are not easily banished because they dig in deep, press into the muscles upon which the tissues rest.

Crosslines are due to eyebrow lifting, an unnecessary facial gesture that has a devastating effect upon the flesh.

Catch 'em young, these horrid tracings. Use a massage cream faithfully with a circular movement of the first finger, doing curlycues from temple to temple. Friction the lines crosswise as you would iron out a crease in a rumpled fabric. Place the thumb at the lower end of the frowns, first finger at the upper end, hold the finger firmly and go nipping up with the thumb. This treatment lifts up the grooves.

Ice rubs are beneficial in the treatment of all kinds of facial pleatings. Awakening the blood streams urges them to take cell building foods to tissues that are more or less depleted.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

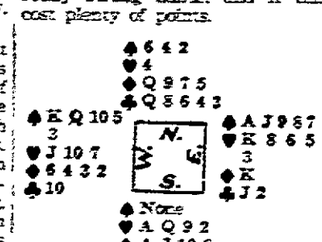
"The Authority on Authorities"

KNOW YOUR LANGUAGE

The most important thing about bidding systems is for a player to know which one his partner is using. If one of them considers the showing of a new suit to be an absolute one-round force upon his partner, and the man opposite him doesn't there can be some very abrupt stoppage to the auction on really strong hands, and it can cost plenty of points.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

Here is a deal on which a grand slam can be made in clubs, but which one pair of fine players in a tournament stopped at the insignificant contract of 2-Diamonds without either partner ever having mentioned the side's best suit. South was one of those players who likes to bid his highest ranking suit first, so started with 1-Heart. After his partner called 1-No Trump to keep it open, in the hope that South could call another suit, his wish was fulfilled by South naming 2-Diamonds. It happened that South considered the call of a new suit an absolute force, but North did not, and so passed. Both partners were fit to be tied when a small slam was made against the lead of the spade K.

At another table the hand was bid in more orthodox fashion, beginning with 1-Club by South, North 1-Diamond, East 1-Spade, South 2-Hearts, West 2-Spades, North 3-Clubs, East 3-Spades, South 4-Spades as a cue bid, North 5-Clubs and South 6-Clubs. Anybody but a novice could make this contract, plus an overtrick.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, September 16.

MUCH ACTIVITY is shown for this day, judging by the lunar transits, but it may be of a turbulent, violent and reckless nature unless extreme care is taken to curb rash, impulsive and other forms of temperamental behavior. Such aggravating action may impel elders, superiors or others of importance to withdraw their sympathetic support, and may also provoke reprisals in the way of subterfuge, deception and collusion. These might be placated and solid benefits derived by a show of moderation, self-restraint or amiability.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which all depends on moderate and calmly-deliberated conduct when drastic activity seems to incite to agitation, strife or some other form of intemperate behavior. Elders and superiors may be aggravated to withdraw their support, but amiability and self-restraint may placate them. Be alert to duplicity and intrigue.

A child born on this day may be reckless, turbulent, quarrelsome and prone to "fly off the handle" on slight provocation. With youthful discipline it might make a success in a definitely-creative and practical calling.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

MOST of the important news today seems to deal with departing college students. . . . Dr. and Mrs. O. H. Schettler took their younger son, Jack, to Culver, Ind., early this week—he will be a plebe at Culver Military academy this year. . . . Another plebe there from Mansfield now is Jack Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Parker. . . . And Dick Schettler will go out this week-end for his second year at the academy. . . . Bob Leisy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Leisy, is also there this year.

Marianne

Two more Mansfield boys, busy preparing for school, are Spencer Draffan, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Draffan, and Burton Preston III, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Preston. . . . Spencer, a junior, and Burton, a new sophomore, are leaving soon for Cleveland, where they will attend University school (well-known Ohio preparatory school for boys)—they will live in Pickands hall dormitory.

* * *

STILL MORE STUDENTS: Barbara Brunner and John Hammer have gone to Granville, where they are students at Denison university. . . . Barbara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Brunner, will be a freshman at the school, and John, the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Hammer, is in his junior year. . . . Shirley Childs, Merle Abele and Susan Bell Paste have already begun their studies at Ohio university in Athens—Shirley, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Vinton G. Childs, and Merle, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Abele, are members of the new freshman class, and Susan Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Paste, who is a member of Chi Omega sorority, will be a sophomore.

THEIR FRIENDS will be glad to know that some former Mansfielders are in town this week. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Woerth Kaufman and their baby daughter, Pleasance, are here from Cleveland visiting with Mr. Kaufman's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Kaufman, and his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Dise. . . . Woerth, now with the Halle Brothers company in Cleveland, was an employe of Malcolm Cone's clothing store here some years ago. . . . Probably a lot of the younger folk in town remember Betty Love and will be glad to know she's here for a few weeks—Betty, you recall, moved to Columbus with her parents following her graduation at Mansfield Senior high school, and when she returns later this month she will enter her sophomore year at Ohio State university—in the meantime she's assisting Marjorie Campbell in the art department at Senior high . . . and staying with Mrs. T. J. Chamberlain on Glenwood boulevard. . . . Another former Mansfielder who now resides in Cleveland is Mrs. Kenneth Heilman—the former Jane Parr. . . . She is here now with her young daughter, Beverly Ann, visiting with her mother, Mrs. D. H. Parr.

* * *

News of new arrivals is always important, so here's some for you today. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tappan (you'll remember her as Virginia Starkey) are the proud parents of a baby girl, whom they've named Margaret Marian for both their sisters.—The Tappans moved from Mansfield to Washington, D. C., early last spring.

* * *

FOLKS who saved their vacations until now probably feel pretty smug about the whole thing since the weather has turned so warm. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Y. Sowash, their daughter, Jane, and Robert Brollier left today for Niagara Falls, Detroit, and Dearborn, Mich.—where they'll visit at Henry Ford's museum and Greenfield village. . . . Mrs. Edward W. Loughridge and her children are in New York City.

* * *

AND IN CONCLUSION: If any of you are in Columbus over the week-end, better drop in at the Neil house to have a look at the hobby show there now—because Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Owens are displaying some of their antiques in it. . . . Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Wolf have just returned from a week's vacation in New York City and the World's fair.

Youngstown Wins Ohio Collegiate Opener.

King Football reigned in Ohio today. At coronation ceremonies last night 8,000 persons saw the home team beat Geneva in the state's first college game of the season. Trailing 7 to 6 at the half, the Penguins scored two touchdowns in the third period to defeat the Pennsylvania school, 20 to 7. Youngstown piled up 12 first downs to four for Geneva

New Coach, 1939 Tygers Get Baptism Saturday

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

SATURDAY will mark the 40th inaugural of a Mansfield high school football season.

This year a new coach is at the helm. Paul Snyder, lured from Mt. Vernon, takes over where J. Russell Murphy left off to assume a coaching position at Cornell university.

While Mansfield regretted to see the veteran Murphy relinquish the reins, it welcomes the appearance of Snyder on the scene.

There are few who will dispute the fact that Mansfield has obtained one of the finest young high school coaches in Ohio in the person of Snyder.

Not of the fiery type as Murphy, the new Tyger mentor possesses a likeable personality, and the manner in which he has groomed his new charges is indication enough that he is qualified to teach football.

Stepping into a new job vacated by a man as successful as Murphy is difficult, but Snyder has "sold" himself to players and fans alike.

While not a stern taskmaster, Snyder has won the confidence of his players, and the spirit that he has developed among his charges leaves no doubt that he has instilled a very vital asset into his team!

* * *

Prospects at Mansfield high school this season are not illuminating.

Tygers May Develop Into Strong Team.

THE squad stacks up on a par with the 1938 aggregation, judging from what has been noted on the practice field, but this is no indication that it will fare as unsuccessfully as the current year's predecessor.

There is a possibility that the present edition of Tygers will be a more formidable team.

It is faced by a terrific schedule, one of the strongest in the history of the school, but it may accomplish more than expected. It has shown that much promise in training.

But Mansfield should not be disappointed if Snyder fails to develop an unbeatable team in the first year.

Any team playing a schedule which includes such grid powers as Massillon, Canton McKinley and Sandusky can be excused for a lot of things.

With Snyder at the helm, assisted by two capable assistants, Harry Mehock and Vern Hoffman, and the launching of an elaborate junior high school football system just around the corner, Mansfield will stage a comeback in "big time" gridiron circles, we believe.

* * *

Maybe not this year, but the outlook for the future is not discouraging.

Coach Winsper Fears History Will Repeat.

ACCORDING to "Nig" Murray, Wooster Record sports editor, Ed Winsper, former Shelby coach, who brings his Wooster Generals to Madison field tonight, has a feat that history will repeat itself. But we'll let Murray tell the story:

"Coach Winsper had one of his Shelby teams playing against Madison High a few years ago. When the scores were all marked up, the Shelby team was trailing.

"Principal reasons for Madison winning that night were two touchdowns resulting from two bad passes the Shelby center made over the goal line his team was defending.

"Shelby entered that game with a green center. Friday night the Generals will meet Mansfield Madison and also with a center, whoever he may be, who has had little experience.

"So that is the reason he is keeping his fingers crossed this week and will continue to do so until Friday night's game is over. He knows this is one of the times when history might repeat itself."

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY — Grid prospects "not encouraging" at Mansfield high. Coach Russ Murphy announces. Capt. Gene Earick and Ed Holmquist form nucleus . . . Bill Tilden won national singles tennis crown . . . The A's clinched American league pennant.

Power-Packed Bill Headed By Massillon

Defending State Champions Dedicate New Stadium With Cleveland Club.

By JIM EMERSON

COLUMBUS—(UP) — A power-packed program of games worthy of mid-season billing lifts the curtain today and Saturday on the 1939 Ohio schoolboy gridiron show.

The opening day "breather" contests belong to the past for most of the crack Buckeye outfits as some 470 teams plunge into another season of this "anything can happen" sport.

Enthusiastic crowds ranging upwards to 17,000 are expected to watch most of the games if the weatherman co-operates. All but a handful of the encounters are scheduled for tonight.

* * *

The top attraction, both for color and anticipated football, will be the clash between Massillon, unbeaten ruler of Buckeye grids for four years, and Cleveland Cathedral Latin, which hung up a perfect record last fall.

A score of industrial and civic notables will join a throng of 17,000 customers to help dedicate Massillon's new $110,000 stadium Friday night and to see if Paul E. Brown's home-town Tigers have "it" again. Cleveland will send a special train with band and boosters.

The advance rumors say that Brown has another crack eleven built around eight regulars and more than 20 lettermen from last year. The tight-lipped coach of champions merely smiles and says: "We'll have a respectable club."

Another clash bringing together two potentially strong elevens matches Akron South vs. Lorain Friday night. South is the defending Akron city champion while Lorain is touted as the title favorite in the tough Lake Erie league.

The Toledo schools monopolize the intersectional competition. Waite high, once considered one of the state's best, entertains Peabody, Mass., at Toledo tomorrow night while Toledo Libbey goes to Aurora, Ill., and Toledo Scott to South Bend, Ind., for out-of-state tests.

* * *

Cleveland Collinwood should give the highly-regarded Sandusky Blue Streaks a thorough workout at Sandusky Friday night while Cleveland East and Shaw lock horns in a first class struggle.

Pandas Beat Sox, Tackle Findlay

FINDLAY—(AP)—Lima's Pandas, who earned little respect until the late days of the Ohio State league season, collide with top-notch Findlay tonight in the loop's championship series.

Lima loafed down in the cellar until the season about ended, then spurted up to knock every loop club from its path in a mad and successful climb to fourth place and a spot in the playoffs.

The Pandas shoved Fremont aside 11 to 6 last night to win the preliminary series and go into the main event with the Oilers, who advanced by successive victories over Fremont.

The series, four-out-of-seven, will alternate nightly between Findlay and Lima.

BEARS TRAMPLE GIANTS, RED WINGS HALT BISONS

(By Associated Press)

If the Jersey City Giants had any idea that winning the International league pennant gave them an automatic passport into the "Little World Series" the impression must have been corrected by now.

The Newark Bears trampled on the Giants 9-4 last night for their second straight victory. At the same time the Rochester Red Wings turned the tables on the Buffalo Bisons, 2-0.

Inspired Indians Whip Blues Again

(By Associated Press)

A smashing attack by an inspired Indianapolis team just about washed the Kansas City Blues out of the American association Shaughnessy playoff series last night. The Indians chalked up their third straight win over the Blues, 13 to 1.

Minneapolis stemmed the tide of defeat, however, and closed its home series with Louisville by hammering out a 16 to 1 victory last night after losing the first two games.

CANTON OBTAINS LEAD IN MID-ATLANTIC PLAY

CANTON (AP)—By making the most of what few hits the Springfield pitchers are dishing up, Canton's Terriers held a 2-1 advantage over the Indians today in their Mid-Atlantic league championship playoff. The Springfield pitchers allowed only five hits last night, but Canton bunched them in three frames to score a 6 to 0 victory.

Tribe Steamed Up By Wins

BOSTON — (AP) — Cleveland's Indians, who started their final eastern trip this week with little in mind except to finish the season and make a methodical effort to take second place, were steamed up today after three straight victories, including two over the world champion Yankees.

The Redskins further surprised their followers and themselves yesterday with an 8 to 7 decision over the Red Sox. Willis Hudlin was nominated to try to make it four straight today.

Johnny Allen received credit for his eighth victory of the season in spite of being blasted from the hill in a sixth inning barrage that brought Boston five runs. Joe Dobson and Harry Eisenstat finished the game.

The decision put the Indians two and a half games behind the third-place White Sox and five and a half in back of Boston, in second.

Bruce Campbell, Oscar Grimes and Lou Boudreau led Cleveland's 18-hit attack on three Boston hurlers.

Al Milnar finished the game in left field when Ben Chapman was chased for arguing with the umpires.

Sophomores Hold Spotlight In State's Early Workouts

Daniell, Stephenson, Fisher and Kinkade Stand Out In Field Rich With Material.

By RUSSELL FULLER, International News Service Sports Writer.

COLUMBUS—In the past when Ohio State university's football teams have been pitted against tough opposition, Coach Francis Schmidt has relied on seasoned veterans rather than inexperienced sophomores. But along with other things, that procedure was in danger of abrupt termination.

For pracing across the already well worn practice field today were at least four first year men capable of stepping into starting positions for any battle. It was a safe bet that before the November armistice this quartet will have shouldered a lion-sized portion of the Buckeye attack.

Leading the list of yearlings was a lad whose name needs no introduction to football fans. He was Jim Daniell, 210-pound tackle from Mt. Lebanon, Pa. His brother, Averill, was an all-American under Jock Sutherland at Pittsburgh. Speedy and husky, Daniell needs only to continue early practice form to land one of the tackle posts. He is 6 feet, 1 inch tall.

Prospects were excellent that the opening game might see an all-sophomore tackle setup. A top-notch candidate for the other tackle position was hefty Jack Stephenson from Marion, O. Weighing 214 pounds and measuring 6 feet, 1 inch, Stephenson caught Schmidt's eye the first practice day. Since Monday, he has been in the thick of as much action as the veteran Jerome Grundies and other lettermen.

As soothing to Schmidt as a frisky autumn breeze was the presence in the backfield of Dick Fisher, sophomore halfback from Columbiana. Already elaborated upon, Fisher continues to star in practice. When he runs he sizzles and cuts through space like a knife. If he ever gets loose in a broken field, he will be difficult to catch.

From southeastern Ohio comes the fourth member of the all-star sophomore bracket. He was Tom Kinkade, a hard driving halfback from Toronto. Unlike Fisher, he stands up straight when he runs. His power is in his knees which pump like pistons when he ploughs through the forward wall.

He weighs 188 pounds and is the same height as Daniell and Stephenson. In high school, he was an all-state man. If given the opportunity he will multiply previous accolades.

* * *

Another fledgling not quite so prominent but still a force to be considered was Jack Graf from Columbus, quarterback. Graf tips the scales near the 200-pound mark and is a slashing runner, especially on off-tackle drives. His father, incidentally, was an Ohio State star of an earlier generation.

* * *

Whether Schmidt uses these men regularly or holds them in reserve, he will have the comforting feeling that there is abundant reserve fodder with which to plug any weak spots.

30,000 To See Galento, Nova

Collegian Continues to Rule as Favorite.

By SID FEDER

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Before a crowd expected to reach 30,000, barkeeper Tony Galento and collegian Lou Nova tangle in Municipal stadium tonight for a piece of change and the rather doubtful pleasure of meeting Joe Louis next year.

The fistic faithful figured to ring the cash register at the $100,000 mark or over for co-promoters Mike Jacobs and Herman Taylor, who are putting on this scheduled 15-round tea party at 9 p. m. (EST) in the same ring in which Jack Dempsey was dethroned by Gene Tunney 13 years ago.

The odds on Nova continued to stand at 1 to 2, generally regarded as out of proportion against the pudgy puncher who had Louis on the floor in Yankee stadium less than three months ago. One explanation was that the price had been "upped" to lure wagers, since little betting activity has been noted.

The winner of this bout gets a shot at Louis' heavyweight crown next year, provided, of course, the Brown Bomber slips by Bob Pastor in Detroit next Wednesday. Nova has skyrocketed to the front rank of the heavyweights only in the past year or so, largely on victories over Gunnar Barlund and durable Tommy Farr and a technical knockout of madcap Maxie Baer.

Lift Curtain With Akron Team at Stadium Field

Snyder to Send Lineup Well-Filled With Letter Winners Against Cowboys.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

A FAMILIAR figure will be missing Saturday when this year's edition of the Tygers trot out on the greensward at Stadium field to engage the first foe of the new campaign.

Absent from the scene will be J. Russell Murphy, head of the Mansfield high school football department for 14 years, who resigned early this summer to accept a post on the athletic staff at Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y.

Directing the Tygers squadron against Akron West from his place on the bench will be a new man, Paul Snyder, late of Mt. Vernon, new head coach at the school.

What brand of football the new edition of Tygers will present remains to be seen, but, judging from what has transpired on the training grounds, Mansfield will be pleased.

* * *

The Tygers will play scrappy football in victory or defeat, Snyder promises.

The Snyder team is expected to produce more in the way of an aerial game this year if pre-game developments can be taken as a criterion.

"As for Saturday's game, I can't say much," Snyder said. "There is little that we know about Akron West. But I don't believe the Mansfield fans will be disappointed in the boys' first performance."

Since Sept. 1, Snyder has worked a squad numbering nearly 80 men. The Tygers have absorbed his teachings splendidly, and now they're ready for the initial test.

Although lacking the Nash and Johnson of recent Akron teams, Mansfield is not expected to have an easy time of it Saturday. But, according to the dope, should win.

The Tyger squad is in splendid condition for the inaugural billed at 2:30 p. m., and only Dave Templeton of what Snyder has labeled his tentative first-string lineup will not be in action Saturday due to a leg injury.

Tentatively slated to hold down backfield berths in the lid lifter are Howard Hershey, Bob Lantz, Marshall Smith and Jim LeMunyon.

Hershey, Smith and LeMunyon saw considerable service last season, and Lantz has been one of the outstanding performers in the pre-season drills as a blocking back.

* * *

Among the newcomers expected to get into the game is Joe Logan, star of Harry Mehock's track team, who has been a running sensation in practice games. A last-minute change may even insert him in the starting lineup, Snyder stated today.

* * *

While graduation took a heavy toll in the line, the starting forward wall will include six players who were used in either regular or reserve capacities last fall.

The lone exception is Gene Miller, an end, who hails from Medford, Wash.

Yankees, Reds Fool Experts

Cincinnati Shakes Off Misfortune to Hold Lead, While Gothamites Slump.

By JUDSON BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer.

JUST to cross up the experts, the "faltering" Cincinnati Reds may rush into the National league pennant under full steam and the "invincible" New York Yankees may make another embarrassing entrance into the American league sanctum through the back door.

The courageous Cincinnati club, shaking off misfortunes right and left while withstanding a siege by the St. Louis Cardinals, has won five consecutive games this week, including a doubleheader from the New York Giants yesterday.

In contrast, the world champion Yankees, with resources to burn, have lost three in a row. But the Boston Red Sox also were beaten yesterday, improving New York's position and recalling last year when the Yankees "clinched" the flag while dropping a doubleheader to the lowly St. Louis Browns.

The Yankees were spanked 6-1 by the Detroit Tigers yesterday on the six-hit pitching of Buck Newsom. The Cleveland Indians, still on the warpath, edged out Boston 8-7 with Bruce Campbell hitting a triple, double and two singles.

The resurgent Reds linked 13 hits in each game to crush the Giants 8-5 and 9-3.

The Cardinals made the most of their single game with the Boston Bees, swatting out a 6-3 victory.

The Chicago Cubs also hung on doggedly to the leaders' trail, sweeping two games from the Phillies 13-1 and 5-2.

Brooklyn's doddering Dodgers split a double bill at Pittsburgh to obtain their first victory in four games since heading west. The Buccaneers bagged the opener 4-3 but lost the nightcap 8-4.

Dutch Leonard, Washington's masterful knuckleballer, earned his 18th win with a six-hit job that beat the St. Louis Browns 5-1.

Dee Miles made a pinchhitter's dream come true for the Philadelphia Athletics. Coming to bat in the last of the tenth inning with a man on base, Miles slammed out a homer to beat the Chicago White Sox 4-2.

Lug Pigskin For Rams In Inaugural Tonight

Madison High Gridmen Meet Wooster Generals on Home Field.

COACH AL FENDRICK will unveil his new edition of Rams under the lighted Madison field at 8 p. m. today.

Madison's foe will be the Wooster Generals, who were one of the few undefeated Class A clubs in Ohio last fall.

Facing the first of three Class A opponents to be met this season Madison is expected to encounter one of their toughest battles of the season.

While Wooster will outweigh the graduation-riddled Madison club, Coach Ed Winsper's starting eleven will not be the heaviest team the Generals can produce.

* * *

It is likely to be several pounds below the heaviest possible with the weight in the center of the line likely to be below the weight in other portions of the team.

From those who are most likely to start it appears the eleven to take the field will average 163 pounds with the line having an average of 167 and the backfield an average of 157.

Madison's probable lineup tonight is expected to include Bud Barber, Dave Weimer, Ed Nalezinek, Bill Folmer, Jim Robinson, Walt Weimer and Louis Danison in the line and Bob Heichel, Doug DeNero, Capt. Bill Heichel and Bob Mathias in the backfield.

Six-Man Football, Night Games On Increase In Ohio Schools

Spread of Game Which Involves Fewer Players Revives Sport In Smaller Communities.

By JIM EMERSON, United Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS—(UP)—Ohio high school football legions are in training today for the opening skirmishes Friday and Saturday in the 1939 campaign.

Approximately 470 teams were girding for the rigors of the long schedule trail that will lead a mere handful to the glory of undefeated and untied records next Dec. 2.

The new schoolboy gridiron scene will be notable for two fast growing trends—the six-man game and scheduling of night contests. Changes in the playing code this fall are minor.

* * *

Spread of the six-man game is reviving football in scores of small schools and bringing the sport to other communities never large or wealthy enough to afford the 11-man variety, according to H. R. Townsend, commissioner of the Ohio High School Athletic association.

He forecast that last season's roster of 40 schools with six-man football will be doubled.

"I wouldn't be surprised if as many as 100 schools take up this brand which is regarded as safer, more economical and easier to play with small squads than the 11-man game," Townsend said.

While tabulations are still lacking on the number of teams participating in either type of gridiron competition, Townsend said six-man league will blanket several counties including Hamilton, Licking, Portage, Wood and Tuscarawas.

The six-man game places a premium of passing and speed. The two teams line up on a gridiron 80 yards in length instead of the 100-yard field for 11-man football. There are three men on the line and three in the backfield.

Key to the wide-open play is a rule which forbids running with the ball by the first player receiving it from center. He must pass or hand the pigskin to a team-mate who may run or pass it at his option. All players are eligible to receive passes. Players are brought down by tackling as in the 11-man game.

The prospect of greater crowds is the magnet responsible for scheduling of more and more games under lights at night, mostly on Fridays, Townsend said. Last fall was a banner season for attendance at high school games with exceptionally good weather prevailing.

Massillon, recognized as perhaps the strongest eleven in the state, drew 104,000 patrons to its home games and should get a big start on a 1939 record Friday night when the 1939 team dedicates a new stadium in a game with Cleveland Cathedral Latin.

Both teams were unbeaten and untied last year. Cathedral Latin lost most of its first eleven by graduation, however, while Coach Paul E. Brown of Massillon is expected to come up with another fine machine.

* * *

The only changes of importance in the high school rules liberalize substitution procedure. The amendments, adopted by vote of the state association members last spring, now permit a player to enter a game once each quarter and to talk to team-mates immediately upon reporting.

* * *

Formerly, substitutions were limited to two entrances per game for each player and no communication was allowed until after one play was run off.

Townsend said the first change should cut down injuries caused by playing fatigue while abolition of the "no talk" rule will "save several coaches much nervous prostration."

Amateur Field Reduced to 12

By FRITZ HOWELL

CHICAGO—(AP)—The ancient "youth will be served" adage rode high today as a quartet of youngsters, survivors of a match play field of 64, teed off at the North Shore club in the 36-hole semi-finals of the 43rd National Amateur Golf championship.

Still in the running for the grandest prize in the simon-pure mashie-swinging sport were:

Marvin (Bud) Ward, 26, of Spokane, Wash., who finished just a stroke off the three-way first place pace in the 1939 open.

Ray Billows, the 25-year-old lightweight from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., who opposed Johnny Goodman in the finals of the 1937 amateur.
